MANY FARMS CHANGE HANDS; GREAT DEMAND

While many sections of the country are finding that farms are going "begging" for buyers and there are some vacant farms dotting the countryside because of lack of farm labor, Adams county has reversed the situation, with more people seeking to buy farms than there are farms to sell.

A large number of farms have changed hands this spring, it was pointed out by local real estate dealers, but there are still more buyers than sellers. One local real estate operator reported that he has sold 20 farms so far and could sell twice that many. That number, 20, is about twice the number he has sold in an ordinary year, he stated.

Public sales of farms in the county are no higher than in normal years, with a check of the sales list for this year showing 54 sales so far, with the season for sales just about over. Last year, up to the present date, there were 52 sales.

Farm Income Up
Farm agent M. T. Hartman disclosed that while in some sections nearby, particularly in Maryland, numerous sales of farms and cattle are being made because of labor conditions and other wartime handicaps, in Adams county the sale of cattle as well as farms has been about normal.

The increase in farm income from the rise in farm prices has had a favorable effect on the sale of farms, it was stated by local real estate dealers. Many younger farmers, who have been living with their parents for some time are now buying farms and setting out on their own.

Prices of farms, due to the demand, are high in most instances. One feature pointed out by the real estate agents was that in some instances farms are being sold to "inexperienced" people who are moving out of the towns and cities to the farms. However the number of such sales, it was stressed, are small, with most of the sales being to younger farmers, some of whom are coming back to the farm after having been engaged in other industries.

Post-War Security
While prices generally are strong, real estate operators said today, the tendency for prices to go even higher is slowly pushing up the asking prices for farms. The dealers have been successful so far however in "holding down" prices to a reasonable level, one dealer stated.

One agent, who has sold 14 farms so far this year, mostly to out of county residents, said today he could "sell 50 more farms in the $4,000 to $5,000 class," if he could find sellers. That price small farm has been a standard demand for the last few years, he stated.

The attempt of city people to find security after the war is over was given by a dealer, who finds buyers mostly through an agency, as one reason why there is a great demand for farms. About half of his clients, he stated, are city dwellers seeking farms for that reason. Most of them however are planning to put their farms into production immediately in order to help the war effort, it was stated. The other half of the clients are former farmers seeking to go back to the land, or farmers from sections in the west and north seeking new land nearer transportation facilities and the great markets of the east.

Cattle Sell High
Auctioneers contacted were unanimous in giving their opinion that there are less public sales than in previous years. At the same time, they said, the prices brought at the sales are far higher than they have been for a long time. Cattle prices for the most part range from "high" to "extremely high." Farm machinery is also bringing top prices as farmers seek to replace tractors and other machinery which is becoming increasingly difficult to obtain.

The auctioneers agreed that few, if any farmers, are selling out because of labor shortages or war time difficulties. The great majority of the sales, they said, are being held for the usual reasons—retirement of farmers who have reached an advanced age and other similar reasons.

CLAUDE SHEADS PASSES AT 77

Claude A. Sheads, 77, South Washington street, veteran battlefield guide, died this morning at 2 o'clock at the Warner hospital where he had been a patient for the last 10 days. A complication of diseases caused death.

Mr. Sheads, who had worked for many years as a battlefield guide here and also had worked as a sign painter, had lived in Gettysburg for the greater part of his life. He was a member of the Gettysburg lodge of the Eagles.

The only survivors are nieces and nephews.

SPOTTER HURT LEAVING POST

Mrs. Mildred Shover, West Middle street, suffered a fracture of the right arm and a severe laceration of the scalp Wednesday night when she fell in the First National bank building after leaving the aircraft warning service observation post on the roof of the bank.

Mrs. Shover, who was serving as a spotter with Mrs. Erle Deardorff, from 6 to 8 p. m. Wednesday had left the post at the conclusion of her tour of duty and had entered a hallway in the building. There was no light in the hall, she said, and in seeking a light switch she fell down a flight of four steps.

Miss Dorothy Foth, who was visiting the apartment of her brother Barton Foth, outside of which Mrs. Shover fell, took the injured woman to the Warner hospital where she was treated.

Four clamps were placed in the cut in her forehead. X-rays on Thursday disclosed the broken arm but revealed no bones broken in her right foot which was also hurt in the fall.

The Adams County Red Cross chapter through its camp and hospital council committee headed by Dr. J. Walter Coleman has been asked to furnish a sun room in a hospital at a nearby Army camp, it was announced following a meeting of the committee on Thursday.

Articles sought include reading tables, bridge tables, magazines and racks, bookcases, window curtains, floor lamps, settees, chairs, and a radio. This assignment was made Adams county at a meeting of the camp and hospital council of 14 Red Cross chapters which was held at Carlisle on Monday.

Those present at Thursday's session included Doctor Coleman, Mrs. C. C. Culp, Mrs. S. H. Reed, Miss Margaret McMillan, and W. Preston Hull.

COUNTY LUMBER OUTPUT RISING; LABOR NEEDED

Adams county's output of lumber has increased during the past year to meet the demands of the war effort, D. E. Hess, head of the local Farm Forestry office of the U. S. Department of Agriculture, said today. The increase has been brought about by opening up of an additional number of sawmills rather than by increased production on the part of individual mills, he stated.

Pointing out that the majority of mills in the county have been hard hit for manpower by the draft and by demands of other industries, Hess said that the greatest increase in production has come from the opening of mills closed as late as 1940 plus the setting up of several new mills in the county.

The individual mills cannot go into the open market to seek labor for two reasons, he said; first because the skill needed in lumbering and sawing precludes the possibility of using unskilled labor; and second, the skilled workers can obtain higher wages in other sections than they can from local mills.

27 Mills Operating
One result of the increased activity of the 27 mills now in operation has been a great increase in clear cutting of woodlots. Warning against such a course, the forester pointed out that clear cutting wastes the nation's resources in that large numbers of trees too small at the present time for lumber are cut. There can be no replacement for decades to come of the woodlots stripped of all timber.

The loss of timber caused by stripping woodlots and forests also will cause great harm to the drive to increase farm production in the county, he pointed out. Removal of the trees is increasing erosion and is destroying plant food that would ordinarily help increase farm products.

High Producing Section
The danger from clear cutting is more apparent in Adams county than in other sections, he said, because the county is one of the leading wood producing sections in southeastern Pennsylvania.

In ordinary times only about 15 mills were in operation. Production has gone up nearly double, he said. Most of the mills however are still running at below capacity load because of lack of men to log the woods and to operate the mills.

Countian Gets Bars In North Africa

Technical Sergeant John S. Linn, son of Mrs. Hettie Linn, Cashtown, has been promoted to second lieutenant, according to word received by his mother today. Lieutenant Linn is in North Africa.

Linn enlisted last July and was sent to Bolling Field, near Washington. Later he was sent to Scott Field, Illinois, for a three months' course in field radio. He served with a detachment in the Belgian Congo. Linn attended Penn State college for two years.

The Adams County Red Cross War Relief Fund today was increased by contributions from children of the borough and by gifts from townfolks who sent donations from as far away as Florida out of "local loyalty."

Miss Margaret Howard, turning over $5 from her Little Tot school, told the Red Cross that the youngsters in the kindergarten had asked her if they could give something to the Red Cross; on obtaining permission the 18 youngsters in the school brought in donations until they totaled $5. The children at the school include Joyce Mehrling, Elise Scharf, Vickie Maust, Jane Donley, Sandra Wolf, Virginia Brown, Helen Pfeiffer, Sandra Lee Kessel, Kathryn Putman, Betty Ann Stravig, David Gifford, William Scott, Henry Fox, Thomas McElroy, Billy Swisher, Hans Wil-

Nurse's Aide Class To Open On Monday

Another appeal was made today for volunteers to enroll in the class for nurse's aides which begins Monday afternoon at 4 o'clock at the nurses' home. Mrs. Glenn Sachs, supervisor of nurses at the Warner hospital, will be the instructor.

The increasing demand for the services of nurse's aides makes the recent appeal all the more urgent. Women of Gettysburg who are willing to devote some of their spare time to the war effort are urged to communicate with Mrs. Henry M. Scharf, chairman of the nurse's aide committee of the Red Cross, before the initial instruction period Monday afternoon.

Nurse's aides are now giving their services at the hospital and at the college infirmary where the number of patients has been increased because of the Army Air Corps students now on duty at the college.

General MacArthur Sends Huge Aerial Armada On Broad Sweep To Blast Many Japanese Bases

By EDWARD KENNEDY

Allied Headquarters in North Africa, March 19 (AP)—United States troops have occupied El Guetar, 12 miles southwest of Gafsa on the road to Gabes, in a pursuit maintained despite torrential rains and flood conditions, it was announced today.

Forward elements from the command of Lieut. Gen. George S. Patton, Jr., entered the town after its abandonment by the enemy, a communique said.

The soldiers often were wading through water in the muddy gullies to press the advantage gained in the reconquest of the Gafsa area.

Repulse Two Attacks

In the northern sector British First army troops withdrew yesterday from the mining village of Tamera to new positions three miles to the southwest, where they repulsed two German infantry attacks. Tamera itself lies seven miles west of a former British base at Sedjenane and 45 miles southwest of Bizerte, the Axis-held naval base.

The renewal of activities of the force under General Patton, which includes the First U. S. Armored division and the First and 34th Infantry divisions, was accepted by military observers here as new evidence of the Allied determination to clean up enemy holdings in Tunisia.

The communique said the British Eighth Army continued normal patrol activity which resulted in slight local adjustments in the Mareth line zone while Allied forces withdrew slightly on the northern Tunisian front in the Tamera area west of Sedjenane.

Start Closing Trap
United States armored patrols thrust on from recaptured Gafsa toward the Gulf of Gabes by two roads to squeeze the corridor between the forces of Marshal Erwin Rommel and Col. Gen. Jurgen von Arnim.

Lieut. Gen. George S. Patton, Jr., new commander of all American ground forces in Tunisia, sent his armored patrols to the region of El Guetar, about 12 miles southeast of Gafsa and 55 miles from Gabes, while other units probed the road leading toward Maknassy and Mahares on the coast.

The Americans have not yet faced a real test of strength in the thrust (Please Turn to Page 2)

70 ACRES FOR TOWN GARDENS

Nearly 70 acres of land have been made available in Gettysburg for Victory gardeners, George T. Raffensperger, Gettysburg garden chairman, said today as he urged owners of other vacant lots to use the ground themselves or make it available to a friend or neighbor.

"It will not be necessary to consult the chairman or the neighborhood supervisors, who will be named soon, on the disposition of these small plots of ground," Mr. Raffensperger said. "We hope every bit of available land that is suitable for garden use will produce food this season."

Neighborhood Meetings
Plots of ground already listed in various sections of town for neighborhood gardens include the following: The Codori land along East Lincoln avenue; Scott brothers land between York and Hanover streets east of Fifth street; United States government land on East Cemetery hill; land of William Johns and Clyde D. Berger in the southwest part of town; land owned by L. D. Shealer and Mrs. E. S. Lewars in the western section of the borough in addition to plots owned by the Gettysburg Lutheran Theological seminary.

All of the neighborhood supervisors have been selected, Mr. Raffensperger said, and their names will be announced soon. Meetings will be called in the near future for prospective gardeners in each section of town when all persons interested may make requests for land and secure gardening literature and other suggestions on their new project.

By MURLIN SPENCER

Allied Headquarters in Australia, March 19 (AP)—In the most widespread aerial sweep against Japanese concentrations ever launched in the southwest Pacific area, Gen. Douglas MacArthur sent his bombers on damaging raids yesterday against more than a dozen points where the Japanese are building up concentrations, an Allied communique said today.

Big Allied bombers ranged from Timor to Salamaua, New Guinea, and Gasmata, New Britain, hitting everything they could find, but they concentrated on the Japanese stronghold of Madang in New Guinea.

38 Tons On One Base

Three separate sweeps were made at Madang between Finschhafen and Salamaua and more than 38 tons of bombs were poured on the Japanese stronghold, the communique said. Long-range fighters "thoroughly strafed the whole area," it added.

They left the little village in flaming ruins with supply and ammunition dumps shooting up flames visible more than 60 miles away.

The Japanese offered air opposition only over Amboina and New Ireland.

A heavily-armed Liberator bomber on reconnaissance over Amboina found itself trapped by 10 Japanese fighters. The bomber definitely destroyed four of the enemy planes, probably destroyed two more and damaged one. The Liberator returned home damaged but victorious.

Germans Hurl Full Might To Control Upper Donets

BY EDDY GILMORE

Moscow, March 19 (AP)—Dispatches from the front today said the Germans had thrown new air units, motorized infantry outfits and tank detachments into the battle for mastery of the upper Donets river 15 miles east of Kharkov, and that the tremendous pressure of the new forces in the last few hours had caused the Russian line to yield slightly in the Chuguev sector.

Attack Supply Line
Russian fliers, however, smashed at German transport, the communique said, destroying or damaging about 100 trucks hauling men and supplies.

This furnished an indication here that the Germans were depending in this sector on highway travel rather than by rail, although west of Karkov they are supposed to have railroads in operation.

The dispatches did not say how heavy the German reinforcements were, but the Nazis' continued assaults on the Russian lines both from the air and on land are perhaps as furious as anything they have attempted in Russia since they tried to take Stalingrad and Voronozh.

New gains in the drive for Smolensk were reported, with a Red Army column smashing westward along the Vyazma-Smolensk railway to seize more towns west of Izdeshkovo, 25 miles west of Vyazma, capture of which was announced last night.

(Strong Finnish guerrilla raids behind Russian lines, in which communications, ammunition supplies and 34 buildings were destroyed, were reported in a Finnish communique broadcast from Helsinki and recorded by The Associated Press.)

North of the main rail line, the Russian forces were seeking to widen their salients on the west bank of the upper Dnieper river, and killed about 300 of the enemy in one engagement, the noon communique said.

About 800 German officers and men were slain by Marshall Timoshenko's legions beating their way forward toward Staraya Russa, south of Lake Ilmen, it was announced, with several more villages taken in the advance.

Launching the spring Scrap Drive in Adams county, the Majestic theatre will conduct a "scrap matinee" Monday afternoon at 4:15 o'clock with at least five pounds of iron or rubber as the price of admission.

Cash won't admit customers but the necessary quantity of iron or a pound of copper, zinc, aluminum, lead or a bag of rags and discarded silk hosiery will be required. "Somewhere in Sandra" and two added attractions will be shown.

Two trucks will be placed in front of the theatre to receive the various types of scrap presented by the theatre patrons. Volunteers will help load the trucks.

Dr. J. Walter Coleman, Gettysburg Salvage committee chairman, has issued special invitations to all of the public and parochial school children of the community to attend. The show will be open to the public.

Proceeds from the sale of the scrap gathered at the theatre will be turned over to the Red Cross War Relief fund, Manager Sydney J. Poppay said.

OYLER ASSUMES NEW POSITION

Lawrence E. Oyler, Baltimore street, this morning assumed the duties of acting postmaster of the Gettysburg post office.

A postal inspector was in Gettysburg Thursday checking the auditing of the post office accounts preparatory to turning over the office to the new appointee.

Mr. Oyler, former linotype operator and machinist at the Times and News Publishing company for the past 18 years, succeeds the late C. A. Williams who died suddenly last Monday morning and was buried Wednesday afternoon. Mr. Williams had announced his retirement from the office effective March 31st but his sudden death precipitated the earlier assumption of the office by Mr. Oyler. The latter's name was recommended to Senator Joseph P. Guffey who sent the recommendation to the White House for approval.

PATTON'S SHIFT
SIGNIFICANT IN ALLIED FUTURE

By DEWITT MACKENZIE

There's more than meets the eye in Commander-in-Chief Eisenhower's appointment of General "Blood and Guts" Patton to lead the American troops in western Tunisia as the Allies maneuver for position in what may be the start of the big offensive, though it hasn't yet been officially identified as such.

It's a fair guess that Patton has been given the task of exploiting the greatest threat which now exists to the enemy's Tunisian defenses as a whole. That is the danger of a wedge being driven between General Von Arnim in the north and Marshal Rommel in the south.

It looks to me as though Patton, with his central command, is expected to provide the wedge. The fact that he not only is a no-getter but a tank expert, and that these devil-machines will play a great part in the coming show-down, fits rather well into the picture.

Gafsa First Victory

The general inaugurated his new job by recapturing the oasis town of Gafsa, and drove on twelve miles to the southeast. He thus italicized the two-fisted part of his colorful if somewhat inelegant nickname but not the "blood," since the operation was carried out without loss of a single man, the enemy having evacuated the position under fierce bombardment.

Gafsa is highly important, especially as regards any project for driving a wedge between Rommel and Von Arnim. This oasis not only is the greenest and most fruitful little Garden of Eden in all Barbary, but it is the strategic point of the central Allied front. It was the anchor of American troops before they were forced to withdraw on February 16.

Now if you will look at those maps I'm always harping on, you'll see that Gafsa, long a military post, is the hub of a network of strategic highways leading out of that mountainous region. It also lies on the railroad which runs to Sfax, one of Rommel's chief supply ports, 130 miles to the east.

Wedge to Coast

One would expect Gafsa to play a highly important part in driving a wedge through the Axis defenses. Other Allied troops to the northeast would cooperate in this operation. The wedge would be thrust through to the coast, between Sfax and its sister port of Sousse directly north.

The Axis is holding some very powerful positions. However, much of this strength is massed at the extreme ends of Tunisia, like the knobs on a long-handled dumb-bell. Von Arnim is in the far north by Bizerte and Tunis, while Rommel is facing Montgomery with the British Eighth army down near the southern border on the great Mareth line of fortifications.

Plan Annihilation

In between these giant knobs is a stretch of close to 300 miles of coastal belt which is vulnerable. The Axis is said to have some 250,000 troops in Tunisia, and while that force would be formidable when massed, or even divided between two places, it certainly is far from sufficient to defend the length and breadth of Tunisia.

The Allied strategy likely will aim at segregating the two main Axis forces at either end of the country, and then annihilating them. That of course is easier said than done, and the two German leaders may be expected to put up a fierce resistance. They may even try to consolidate their forces and face the enemy together.

So far as one can see, Rommel and Von Arnim must make their last stand without hope of receiving much reinforcement. Comparatively few Axis ships are getting through the Allied naval and air blockade of the narrow waters between northern Tunisia and Sicily. As a matter of fact the probabilities are that the German high command has little to spare either in men or material in view of the terrific battles going forward in Russia.

Meantime Allied resources are mounting. There is doubt as to how long the battle will rage, but there can be no question of the outcome.

Physically Fit To Be In Army By 1944

Somerville, N. J., March 19 (AP)—Louis F. B. Raycroft, regional director for the War Manpower commission, said yesterday that "by the end of this year every physically fit man between the ages of 18 and 38 will be wearing a uniform in some branch of the armed service except for those industrial workers so essential to the war effort as to warrant deferment."

Addressing a luncheon meeting of military, industrial and labor leaders concerned with the shortage of available manpower in the Somerville area, Raycroft placed filling of the armed services as first in importance.

The production and handling of vital materials came next, he said, and civilian essential services followed.

F.D.R. HOPES TO AVOID INDUSTRY
DRAFT LAW NOW

Washington, March 19 (AP)—President Roosevelt told a press conference today he wanted to avoid national service legislation just as long as he possibly could.

No decision has been reached on the question of drafting of workers for war industries, Mr. Roosevelt said, and he added that it might be unnecessary to have it, or that eventually it would have to be put into effect.

Questioned as to why he wanted to avoid such legislation, he said he thought it would create a lot more machinery, make things a lot more complicated in a lot of ways, and people would complain of regimentation.

Of course, he remarked, you can't win a war without regimentation. Declaring that many American industries still are operating on a "share-the-work depression" basis, Capt. Eddie Rickenbacker said the draft the nation has more manpower than it needs "if properly utilized."

"Production Problems"

Testifying before the Senate Military committee inquiring into the Austin-Wadsworth bill to draft men and civilians into war production jobs, the flying ace of World War I declared that "it's not a case of manpower problems but of production problems."

Reading from a page of notes, Rickenbacker said that from many discussions with able production men he is convinced that about 5,500,000 men could be salvaged from present war industries by adoption in all war plants of the incentive or piece work plan.

"Back to the Farm"

Under the incentive plan as opposed by the 40-hour work week and hourly pay rates, he said it would be "ultra conservative" to figure a 33 1/2 per cent increase in production. (The wage-hour law requires payment of time and a half for work over 40 hours.)

The flier expressed a belief that former farm workers now in industry should be instructed to "go back to the farms" or be drafted. "They certainly should be in uniform," he said, "prior to those babies of 17 to 18. Their places in industry could be taken by plenty of persons over 18 to 39 age group who are willing and anxious to get into war work."

Feed Committees
Are Elected Here

Feed dealers, dairymen and poultrymen from Adams and Franklin counties gathered at the court house here Thursday evening to hear state leaders explain the feed situation and to elect county committees to help solve local feed problems. About 50 attended.

Clarence Culp, state fieldman, and Carl Rice, member of the state agriculture committee, spoke to the group who then elected these committees for each county: Adams, Edgar Weaver, John Hartlaub, Harold Herr, J. Price Oyler, Leroy Zeigler and Paul Lehman; Franklin county, Herman Heagy, Mrs. Raymond Hoover, Harry Leshar, Aaron Myers and Frank Walker.

These committees will work with state leaders in the distribution of the scarce protein foods sought by dairy and poultry raisers. Producers and dealers are asked to take local problems to these committees.

KILDAY BILL IS HIT BY STIMSON

Washington, March 19 (AP)—Supporting the principle of inducting men without dependents before fathers are called up, Secretary of War Stimson today opposed the Kilday draft deferment bill on the ground it "would completely breakdown" Selective Service administration.

The War Secretary's letter was made public by Chairman Sabath (D-Ill.) as the House Rules committee resumed hearings on the bill of Rep. Kilday (D-Tex.) to put draft quotas on a state-wide instead of a local board basis and to give deferment priorities to men with children.

Stimson said the legislation, approved last month by a 23 to 2 vote of the Military committee and apparently headed for Rules committee approval and a House vote next week, would present an "administrative impossibility."

Sees Confusion Ahead

Its language, he wrote Sabath, is not clear enough to prevent possible confusion through individuals appealing to the courts from induction orders on the ground that all available men in prior draft categories within the same state had not been called.

The bill prescribes this general sequence of induction within state lines: Single men with no dependents, first, followed in order by single men with collateral dependents, married men without children, and married men with children.

New Tax Plan To Be Offered Soon

Washington, March 16 (AP)—A new pay-as-you-receive tax plan designed to extract higher payments from "war profiteers" was drafted by Representative Walter (D-Pa.) today for introduction in the House next week.

Walter said his proposal called for pay-as-you-go payments, beginning July 1, on 1943 normal taxes and also on last year's surtaxes only.

"It was last year that those unconscionable profits were earned," he said. "This year, because of negotiation of contracts, profits have been reduced, and so that is why I suggest that this year's surtaxes be forgiven, but that last year's surtaxes be collected."

BRITISH SUBS
SINK 8 SHIPS

London, March 18 (AP)—Two British submarines sank six supply ships, a tanker and a naval auxiliary in a recent ten-day patrol in the Mediterranean, the Admiralty announced today.

"Within ten days two of His Majesty's submarines operating in the Mediterranean have sunk four large enemy supply ships, a tanker of medium size and a small supply ship," the Admiralty said in a communique. "In addition, they destroyed a naval auxiliary and another small supply ship."

In addition, a minesweeper was so severely damaged she had to be run ashore.

Two of the large supply ships, it said, were torpedoed off Sicily while they were westbound under escort of two destroyers and a sloop. The other two large supply ships were sunk off northern Italy.

The tanker was torpedoed off northwest Sicily, burst into flames and blew up almost immediately, the Admiralty said.

All the others listed as destroyed were engaged by gunfire, including two small supply ships and an anti-submarine vessel.

which brought Gafsa back into Allied possession Wednesday.

French troops also were joining in the slowly closing trap, driving eastward toward the coast between the Chott Djerid salt marsh and Gafsa.

Plan Double Blow

Rommel is known to have tank reserves at his disposal, but he must decide whether to use them against the American troops commanded by the aggressive Patton or the veteran British Eighth Army of Gen. Sir Bernard L. Montgomery, now feeling out Rommel's positions in the Mareth line. (The German-controlled Paris radio said there had been a lull in Eighth Army assaults which Berlin broadcasts earlier had described as the start of a major attack.)

It is no military secret that the most effective way to drive Rommel into a corner in northern Tunisia would be to hit him on two sides at the same time in the south and there were indications that this double blow was about to fall.

Haworth Made V.P.
Of Western Maryland

G. R. Haworth was today elected vice president of the Western Maryland railway company in addition to his duties as general manager of the road.

A native of Phillipsburg, Pa., Mr. Haworth entered railway service in 1905, and, after holding various positions with the Erie and Chicago, Burlington and Quincy railroads, he became affiliated with the Western Maryland in 1911.

After serving the Western Maryland railway in various engineering capacities he was appointed Division Engineer in 1924, and in 1936 was promoted to the post of engineer maintenance of way, in 1940 to the office of general superintendent, and in 1941 to the position of general manager.

Assessor Appeals
From Own Appraisal

Erie, Pa., March 19 (AP)—Leroy Hart, a North East township assessor, complained about the assessment on his land to the county Tax Revision and Appeal Board.

"Didn't you make the assessment?" Hart was asked.

"I did, but when I thought it over I found it too high," he replied. The board cut the assessment from $1,085 to $745 and asked Hart not to make the same error again.

Winner Of Pep-Angott Bout Expect To Claim "Part" Of Lightweight Title

WEE WILLIE IS SELECTED AS FAVORITE

By SID FEDER
New York, March 19 (AP)—Wee Willie Pep and swarthy Sammy Angott collide in Madison Square Garden tonight in a ten rounder that's billed as a non-title lightweight tussle—but no one believes that part of it.

As a matter of fact, some of the better 49th street betting shoppes have quoted odds that the winner of this shindig—in which both fighters must come in under the 135-pound limit—will lay claim immediately to at least a portion of the world lightweight title. And get some recognition for it.

Jack Recognized
This, of course, would be a separate portion from the piece owned by Beau (the jumping) Jack, who received the New York State Athletic Commission's blessing after Angott "abdicated" the crown last fall. The National Boxing association has left the title open.

Tonight's outing is Sammy's first since he decided to come back with "miraculously" cured hands. The crouching, crowding, mauling style of the squat little Pennsylvania Italian figures to produce the toughest hurdle for the all-time record 62 straight winning string Wee Willie has put together in his unbeaten career.

Pep Is Favorite
The betting boys don't feel this way about it, but it has been proved in the past that the way the betting boys feel has as much to do with a fight as the price of sand on the Sahara. They believe Wee Willie is such a shoo-in to make Sammy his 63rd plum pudding that they've installed him a 5 to 13 betting choice. This is quite a price, especially since Wee Willie is only a featherweight, although a pretty fair country hand among the 127-pounders.

In spite of Angott's weight edge, this corner believes the package of Pep, who is recognized in New York as featherweight champion, has too much speed for Sammy and will wind up in front for the entertainment of an expected 18,000 of Gus Fan's relatives. They figure to chip into the season's top "pot" of some $75,000.

80 SCHOOLBOYS WILL COMPETE FOR MAT TITLE

State College, Pa., March 19 (AP)—Three 1942 champions will be among 80 schoolboy grapplers competing tonight in the preliminaries of the 6th annual Pennsylvania Interscholastic Athletic Association wrestling championships at Pennsylvania State college.

A fast tourney was predicted by PIAA Secretary Edmund Wicht despite the smaller entry list, reduced by travel and housing difficulties. Last year, 150 competed for the 11 state titles.

The preliminaries tonight will be run off on two mats with the semifinals tomorrow morning and the championship contests in the afternoon.

2 Districts Missing
Steve Beaumaine, Grove City, a 1942 champion, will compete again for the 120-pound crown against Jimmy Conklin, Waynesburg, last year's 112-pound title-holder and winner of crowns in 1940 and 1941. Elias George, Canonsburg, 133-pound champion in 1942, has advanced to the 145-pound division.

All PIAA units but districts eight and 12, which have no wrestling programs, will be represented. Teams from districts two, three, five, seven and 10 and the combined team from districts six and nine have entries in each of the 11 weight divisions. District four has 10 contestants while George Halas, Haverford 95-pounder is district one's only entry. Three wrestlers from Bethlehem high carry district 11 hopes.

Boswell high in district five with nine contestants leads the nearly 30 schools in number of entries. Clearfield, Waynesburg and Forty-Fort have six qualified each.

SPORTS ROUNDUP

By HUGH FULLERTON, JR.
New York, March 19 (AP)—Greg Rice, who has no equal at picking 'em up and laying 'em down by the mental aspects of foot racing. . . . He doesn't know how well he can do at a mile and therefore wouldn't feel so sure of himself as he does at two miles. . . . And when he's shooting for a record, as he likely will be in tomorrow's Chicago relays, he doesn't "really try" until he sees how the first half mile goes. The slow first quarter, he says, ruined last week's bid for a new two-mile mark, but he may set his sights on an 8:50 record tomorrow. . . . It was on the Chicago track that Greg set the current two-mile record, incidentally working in a 4:16 mile as he did it.

NEW GAME
The most popular game among the New York Giants down at Lakewood, New Jersey, where they're supposedly training for the baseball season, is table tennis. . . . But since there are only two paddles at Brannick Arms, they've had to invent a new kind of doubles in which each team uses one paddle, passing it back and forth between two players. . . . To make it more confusing, Manager Mel Ott, a southpaw hitter, and Cliff Melton, a left-hand pitcher, both play right-handed.

SHORTS AND SHELLS
Elmer Layden, the pro football boss, has just received a letter from one of his old quarterbacks at Columbia (Iowa) college, Capt. Al Entringer of the Medical Corps in New Guinea, asking if there's any truth to that rumor floating around the south Pacific that the Redskins beat the Bears. . . . If National League baseball games are called for any reason but the weather—curfews, catching trains, etc.—this year, they'll be regarded as "suspended" games and must be completed when the teams get together again. . . . Prexy Ford Frick figures a lot of games will be halted because of train connections. . . . Emerson Woodward, who already has more race horses than he can watch, found 18 new foals awaiting "Valdina" names the last time he visited his Texas farm.

He's taking his basic military training at Camp Croft, South Carolina, and recently found time to take on PFC Erwin Sauerland of Pittsburgh, who used to fight as Ery Sarlin, in an exhibition bout in connection with a USO benefit basketball tourney at Sparta, South Carolina. . . . Pvt. Clayton Heafner told some of his golfing experiences as part of the same show. . . . When Jack Jacobs, former Oklahoma halfback, was washed out by the Army Air Corps because of four crippled toes on one foot, Harold Keith, the Sooner drummer, suggested they got that way when Jack punted a wet football 86 yards against Santa Clara.

LAUGH OF THE WEEK
Explanation by Prexy Tom Lockhart of the Eastern Amateur Hockey league of why his clubs can "borrow" pro players for their playoff games: "It's an extension of the lend-lease system under which professional clubs have been borrowing an amateur here and there for one or two games. Squires Face Big Test Tonight Above are pictured the members of the Delone high school basketball team who meet Roman Catholic high of Philadelphia on the McSherrystown floor tonight at 9 o'clock for the Catholic Eastern Pennsylvania conference championship. The victor will play Pittsburgh North Catholic, champion of the Catholic Western Conference, next week for the state title.

Roman Catholic is regarded as one of the best schoolboy teams in the state. Last Monday Coach Oliver's lads lost a 29-28 extra period tilt to West Philadelphia high for the schoolboy championship of Philadelphia. The entire Cahillite squad is noted for its accurate shooting and is led by Joe Rogers, forward.

W. AND J. QUINT IN GARDEN WIN

Washington, Pa., March 19 (AP)—Jubilant students at Washington and Jefferson college today arranged a Sunday reception for their team which scored an upset 43-42 victory over Creighton in the New York Metropolitan Basketball Tournament opener last night.

They began a celebration when the final score was heard and promised an even greater one for the players, who are coming back. They face Toledo in the semi-finals.

Coach Adam Sanders is taking the squad to Madison Square Garden again tonight—but only as spectators. They'll be there to root for a home town boy—Sammy Angott.

Angott, former world's lightweight champ, fights Willie Pep, recognized as featherweight champion in New York state, in a non-title bout. He is a personal friend of all the W. & J. players and a rooster at most of the Prexy home games, Sanders said.

W. & J., once one of the mighty among the nation's sports teams, for many years now has operated under a strict athletic deflation policy. Its athletic director is Wilbur (Fats) Henry, former All-American tackle at Wash-Jeff.

Rutgers Begins Outdoor Practice

New Brunswick, N. J., March 19 (AP)—The Rutgers university baseball team, which opens a ten-game schedule against Stevens Tech April 7, was put through its first outdoor practice session yesterday by Coach Charles (Chuck) Ward.

Forty candidates turned out, including Pitcher Emil Potzer of Plymouth, Pa.

State Sets Up Priority Unit

Harrisburg, March 19 (AP)—The state Property and Supplies department announced today the establishment of a priorities division to speed up the purchases of scarce supplies.

Secretary Chester M. Woolworth said the division will prepare estimates of what the state will need for three-month periods and submit them to the War Production board in Washington for priority ratings.

Woolworth estimated 60 per cent of the $1,000,000 worth of materials bought each month require WPB priority rating.

LOOKING AROUND

By DON BREAM
Sports Editor

Probably the largest crowd ever to witness a basketball game in McSherrystown will be on hand tonight when the Delone high dribblers clash with Roman Catholic high of Philadelphia to determine the eastern champion of the diocesan playoffs in Pennsylvania. The game will get underway at 9 o'clock with doors opening at 8 o'clock.

Delone's rise in the cage world can be traced directly to Coach "Jake" Dracha, former Gettysburg college star. Dracha is coaching the Squires for the first time and his team has turned in some notable triumphs. The McSherrystown lads have won 14 games while losing 10, a none too impressive record, but included in the victories are two which stand out strongly. The Squires dealt Gettysburg high, District 3 PIAA champs, one of their two defeats of the season, and also handed Hanover high, second place team in the southern division of the South Penn circuit, a reverse. To date the Squires have tallied a total of 794 points to their opponents' 679.

Rockne Hall at Allentown, scene of the Gettysburg-Hazleton game Tuesday night, rates as one of the finest schoolboy gymnasiums in the state. The gym is being used for the first time this year. Father Henry J. Heusman, principal for Central Catholic high at Allentown, told the writer Tuesday night that the official seating capacity is 3,400 making it the largest of any schoolboy gymnasium in the state. The capacity is based on allowing 19½ inches per person, largest of any gymnasium in Pennsylvania.

Father Heusman stated that the school officials were "leery" of the expense involved in the erection of such a court but that it is now beginning to pay for itself. Crowds averaging about 2,000 fans attended Central Catholic high games during the current season. The gym will be the site of the Hazleton-Berwick PIAA playoff Saturday night.

Waynesburg high is still seeking a physical education director and athletic coach due to Ben Pollock's resignation several weeks ago. Fifteen

CUE ACE SAYS EXHIBITION IS ONLY VACATION

Philadelphia, March 19 (AP)—Billiard Ace Willie Hoppe is taking a little rest these days—by playing a gruelling, three-day, 300-point exhibition match with a former world champion.

He calls it "a vacation," and means it—because, he says, on his current exhibition tour of Army camps "I've played more billiards in six months than I've ever played before in any three years."

The greatest cue-man of them all them all polished off Ex-Champ polished off ex-Champ Otto Rieselt, always one of his toughest opponents, 50-31 and 50-32, in the first blocks of their three-cushion encounter yesterday.

8-Hour Grind
"But at some of the bigger Army camps I've been at the table eight hours a day, seven days a week," he smiled.

"So you can understand that this little three-day duel with Otto, tough as he is, is in the nature of a vacation. In some camps I play 1,800 points a day—straight rail, three-cushion and pocket billiards." The 54-year-old former boy wonder says he's having the time of his life.

"Never before have I played before such large and responsive crowds. At Fort McClellan, in Alabama, I played before 6,500 boys, which, I believe, is the largest crowd that ever saw a billiard match."

Open Air Match
"That match was played in the open air, the table set on the floor of a stadium that seats 10,000. Here was a thrill that topped the heart throbs I got back in 1906 when (at 17) I won the world championship from Maurice Vignaux in Paris." Like Erwin Rudolph and Charlie Peterson, two other stars, Hoppe is touring camps under the auspices of the Billiard Association of America. Usually he gives plain exhibitions but occasionally a service man volunteers to oppose him in a match. He finishes the tour in June.

Hershey, Pa.—The Giants, Pirates and Braves are interested in Bobby Bragan, who doubled as shortstop and catcher for the Phils last year. However, Manager Bucky Harris said the Phils will make no further trades until Commissioner Landis has ruled on the Nick Etten case.

Donora, Pa., March 19 (AP)—Stan Musial, rookie outfielder who hit 316 in his first full year with the Cards in 1942, then helped them upset the Yankees in the World Series, said last night he has sent his "final letter" regarding his 1943 contract to Sam Breadon, owner of the St. Louis club.

Musial said Breadon had offered him a slight raise but "far from enough." He added that he expected to hear from the club early next week but if he doesn't he "will just stick around the house until something happens."

SAYS SUCKERS ARE PLENTIFUL

Harrisburg, March 19 (AP)—Suckers—the kind with fins—are being hooked in record numbers this year in Pennsylvania.

"Reports from every part of the state indicate sucker fishing is very good," Fish Commissioner Charles A. French declared today. "They are running unusually large and many of the anglers say they are getting their daily limit."

The commissioner explained there is no official season for suckers but the unofficial season was "died-in-the-wool fishermen" is from January to the start of trout season on April 15.

"As soon as the ice moves off the streams sucker fishermen start lining the banks," French said in an interview. "The sucker puts up a good fight at first, but isn't as tenacious as bass. They give up quickly."

Cold weather, he added has made them "unusually good eating."

For bait, French advises worms.

Just Folks
By Edgar A. Guest
THE FOUR FREEDOMS

It was for this our fathers fought:
Freedom to utter honest thought;
Freedom of intellectual choice,
And right or wrong the mind to voice;
Freedom to walk this earth erect,
Maintaining always self-respect.
This freedom tyrants all deny,
But to preserve it, brave men die.
Freedom to worship! Who shall say
How others unto God must pray
Or seek to make man's slavery whole
By chaining his eternal soul?
Mothers alone must teach at night
The prayers their children shall recite,
And who shall dare, with sword or rod,
To close one avenue to God?

Freedom from fear of spur and goad,
Of being driven on life's road,
From fear of law and edict made,
Which keep men constantly afraid;
From fear of lurking eyes and eyes
Of tattle-tales and cunning spies;
Freedom from fear of every kind
Which shatters faith and peace of mind.

Freedom from want of food and fire
And every natural desire;
From want of raiment, doctor's care,
From poverty's extreme despair,
From cruelties the unlucky know;
Not God, but men must see this below!
Not God, but free men ever more
Must guard and grant these freedoms four.

SUCCESS
No one will ever have the last word as to what constitutes success in life. As a matter of fact, anyone's success must be what that one most desires to be. If it is money that expresses that desire—and the attainment of wealth satisfies, then that life has been a success.
On the other hand, if success must be measured by permanent good, or by the amount of influence radiated during a lifetime, and then bequeathed to posterity in one form or another, then money has very little to do with success.
After all, money can never be more than a medium for the attainment of many of the desires of our hearts. And, after that objective has been satisfied, it retires and the objective stays. And from this achievement we give growth to our ideals and to our character and we add richness and ripeness to every thought we think and every act we perform.
My feeling is that there can be no lasting success without happiness. And this is something that money cannot purchase.
Doing the thing you desire to do more than anything else in the world is to gain success—and with this sort of success always comes happiness.
A person is a success who has learned how to control himself—his habits, his emotions, his ambitions. The measure of this control is what establishes the extent or largeness of one's success. It is an arbitrary measurement, after all. We never quite can know just how happy we are, or how influential we may be. But that doesn't matter so much.
The power to appreciate, to understand, to love—and then to give out for all that we gain from these, enters into the final appraisal of success.
Success is something you have to feel, and that you feel that you have contributed to others—to many who are less fortunate than yourself, perhaps. Success is what we own within us—that is never purchasable—but that must be mined,

Martinique And Guadeloupe Expected To Join Allies

FRENCH GUIANA LEADS WAY IN VICHY BREAK

By RICHARD G. MASSOCK

Washington, March 19 (AP)—French Guiana's swing to the leadership of Gen. Henri Honoré Biraud raised hopes in Washington today that the French West Indies, Martinique and Guadeloupe, would soon join in the fight against the Axis.

The high commissioner for French colonies in the Caribbean, Admiral Georges Robert, was believed in diplomatic quarters to face a crisis in his refusal thus far to rally to the Giraud side. It was brought nearer by a critical food situation in Martinique, Robert's headquarters, since the United States has sent no food there since the Allied occupation of French North Africa.

Allied Allegiance
Giraud's military mission in Washington confirmed yesterday that the governor of Guiana and the mayor of its capital, Cayenne, had telegraphed their allegiance to Giraud.

Guiana, site of the notorious Devil's island penal colony on the north coast of South America, thus becomes the first of France's west hemisphere colonies to break away from the rule of Admiral Robert who has maintained a virtually autonomous sway in the French West Indies, without cutting himself off completely from the Vichy regime of Marshal Petain.

Martinique is valuable to the United Nations' war effort not only as a potential base of operations in the Caribbean but also because Admiral Robert is holding a sizeable fleet of French ships there. These include the aircraft carrier Bearn, two or three cruisers, various smaller vessels and six oil tankers.

Force Robert's Hand
Robert is regarded in some quarters here as an ultra-conservative naval officer reluctant to cooperate in the war against Germany without an order from some superior, presumably Marshal Petain.

Giraud has been trying to win Robert over to cooperation, through one of his representatives, Gen. Jean Battet, but thus far without avail. The United States has joined in this appeal with a series of broadcasts to the people of Martinique.

These are believed to have had some effect on popular opinion there and it is felt here that Robert may soon be obliged either to join forces with Giraud or relinquish his post, perhaps to General Battet.

Test Error Not Possible In Raid

Trenton, N. J., March 19 (AP)—The confusion caused by the Army's failure to send out the signal for New Jersey's state-wide blackout last week "could not have happened in the case of a real air raid," says Lieut. Gen. Hugh A. Drum, and "the negligence involved furnishes some excellent lessons, which is the real object of practice blackouts."

The chief of the Eastern Defense Command, writing to Governor Charles Edison, said the Army was to blame for the mixup on March 9, and assured the Governor that "we will take the necessary corrective measures to prevent a recurrence of this unfortunate incident."

When practice blackouts are conducted, Drum explained to the Governor, an "artificial arrangement" has to be inserted into the normal signal system designed for use in actual raids. The failure a week ago Tuesday night was in the artificial factor, and not in the actual protective system, the general declared.

TAKES NEW JOB

Pittsburgh, March 19 (AP)—Dr. B. J. Hovde, administrator of the Pittsburgh Housing Authority, will leave tonight for Washington to accept an administrative position with the War Department.

Mrs. Milton Roth, associate conductress.

Personal: Mrs. M. S. Jacobs, who lives with her son, Captain G. E. Jacobs, of Fort Sam Houston, Texas, is spending some time at the Pitzer home.

Miss Emily Melger, of Harrisburg, is spending the week with Miss Mildred Hartzell, East Lincoln avenue. C. Rex Gilbert has returned to the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. K. Gilbert, Hanover street, after having spent the winter in St. Petersburg, Florida.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Shanbrook and daughter, Betty Lou, of Gridley, Illinois, and William Shanbrook, of Woodstock, Illinois, left for their homes on Wednesday morning.

Mrs. John Weigle and Mrs. Isaac Pickles, of Detroit, Michigan, are visiting Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Spangler, York street.

Mr. and Mrs. James Cairns, Miss Anna Cairns and James Scott Cairns, Springs avenue, have returned from a week's stay at Haddon Hall, Atlantic City, and Philadelphia.

Miss Betty Strausbaugh, Broadway, entertained a number of her friends on Monday afternoon to celebrate her ninth birthday anniversary.

Flashes of Life

HONESTY PAYS

Indianapolis (AP)—Emil Adelman, an Indianapolis butcher, is convinced of that old saw: "It pays to advertise."

Three steaks wrapped for a customer disappeared from his meat counter. He placed an advertisement in the Indianapolis News. No sooner had the newspaper been delivered in the neighborhood than a woman came into his store and said she had taken the steaks by mistake.

"No," he lamented, "she didn't bring back the steaks."
"But," he added brightly, "she did pay for them."

BULL'S EYE

Tacoma, Wash. (AP)—Night or day, Lt. Robert F. MacCarl is a crack shot.

Awakened by a noise in his henhouse, he crept out, armed with his double-barreled shotgun.

As he crouched at the henhouse door, his dog slipped up and nudged him.

Bang! Bang! Went both barrels. Inventory: 14 hens dead, four hens and one rooster alive—but nervous.

FREE WHEELER

San Fernando, Calif. (AP)—Gasoline rationing don't bother 82-year-old Elmer E. Bailey.

"I feel better than ever," he crowed as he completed a 99-mile bicycle ride in 10 hours.

BERKS FARMERS OPPOSE "BLOC"

Washington, March 19 (AP)—Thirty-one Berks county, Pa., dairy farmers, representing themselves as members of the Pennsylvania division of the Farmers' Educational and Cooperative Union of America, have informed Rep. Hoch (D-Pa.) that they are opposed to the "disruptive activities of the self-styled farm bloc."

A letter to Hoch, signed by Alvin B. Christman, of Centerport, Pa., who is listed as a member of the board of directors of the union, stated that an accompanying petition, signed by the 31 farmers, was "self-explanatory."

The petition stated that "We, as patriotic farmers, will do everything in our power to provide the greatest possible output of farm production in 1943," and added:

"We desire to disavow the disruptive activities of the self-styled farm bloc which would have the public believe that the farmers are opposed to a $25,000 limitation on salaries or income, that we object to effective price stabilization, and that we are in favor of tax plans which soak the poor but spare the profiteers, the latest of which is the Ruml plan."

Before Allied Offensive

The broken line on the map indicates the approximate battle-front in Tunisia before the Allies started their offensive to drive Rommel into the sea and destruction. The important city of Gafsa, now in the Allies' possession, is shown just above the word Tunisia. The Allies are pounding the Axis forces on three fronts with heavy aerial support.

Paid For Damage By Army Truck

Washington, March 19 (AP)—Payment to Morton Fielder, 2335 Tilbury St., Pittsburgh, of $219.30 for damage sustained by his automobile when struck by an Army truck was authorized in a bill passed by the House.

The bill, introduced by Rep. Eberhart (D-Pa.), said the accident occurred on U. S. Highway 22 on January 1, 1942.

ARCHEOLOGIST DIES

Philadelphia, March 19 (AP)—Edgar Billings Howard, geologist and archeologist who unearthed archeological remains in the west, died of a heart attack yesterday at his post in the engineering department of the Consolidated Aircraft Corp. at San Diego, Calif., relatives here were informed. He was 56.

U-BOAT NEST IS POUNDED BY U.S. BOMBER PLANES

London, March 19 (AP)—United States Air Force bombers hit hard at the heart of Germany's U-boat strength again with a two-hour attack yesterday on Vegesack, 15 miles northwest of Bremen, their fourth foray in force on Germany proper.

Flying without fighter plane escort on the 800-mile round trip that marked the deepest penetration yet effected by Flying Fortresses and Liberators in their daylight attacks on Germany, the American fliers fended off nearly five-score German fighter planes, laid a heavy load of explosives on a submarine construction center, and then fought their way back over the North sea with the loss of two bombers, a communication said.

"Like Shooting Pigeons"

Many of the enemy fighter planes were destroyed or damaged, it was announced, but returning gunners said they could keep no accurate check on their victims.
"It was just like shooting clay pigeons," remarked Lieut. James DeVinney of Atlantic City, bombardier of the Susie Q. "I don't know how many we shot * * * The Susie Q crew scored possibly five German victims."

Deadly Focke-Wulfs, slower Messerschmitt 110's and some Junkers 88's were in the attacking force, many of them bearing the silver and black paint that marked them as usually reserved for night fighting.

Direct Hit On Sub

One bomber crew said a direct hit was scored on a submarine. Installations in the repair yards and partly-completed U-boats were seen by the bombardiers.

The Vegesack flay broke a 48-hour lull in the daylight offensive against the continent.

SOWING SKILL STOPS WASTE OF GOOD SEED

Most Victory Garden seeds must be sown by hand. Unless a row is more than 50 feet long it does not pay to use a mechanical seeder even where one is available.

Sowing small seeds by hand is simple—just tear a corner off the packet, and hold it so one finger can tap, tap, tap and shake the seeds out to fall in the drill.

But unless this simple feat is performed with care and skill, half of your seed may be wasted by sowing too thickly. Seed is not too plentiful in these war times, and it will pay you well to take great care to avoid wasting it.

This is a job you can afford to bend down to. A crouch which brings your hand close to the open drill is the best position. Let the line which was used to mark the row stay stretched until the seeds are sown, and hold the packet close to the line, so the seeds will fall in the right place.

Then, even if the job gets a bit tedious, space the seeds evenly and thinly. Small seeds should not be thicker than fifteen to an inch. It helps a little with the very small ones, to mix the seeds with dry sand before you begin to sow, using two or three times as much sand as seed. This spreads the seeds out better.

Large seeds, big enough to grasp between your fingers, should be placed individually, spaced so that each plant can develop without crowding.

Many Hazards
You always sow more seeds than you expect to grow even though the germination is 100 per cent. There are many hazards which may cause a plant to die in infancy, such as frost, drought, disease, or flooding. But too many gardeners sow seeds so thickly that only a small fraction of the plants can mature, and they often crowd so badly as to intertwine, and make thinning difficult.

After the seeds have been sown, the next operation is extremely important, that is covering the seeds and firming the soil above them. Cover the small seeds lightly, by raking soil over them. Larger seeds are covered more deeply, and in both cases the soil should be firmed to bring the seeds in contact with the soil, and exclude air pockets, so that the seeds may absorb moisture and the first rootlets take up food.

But remember firming does not mean pounding; and do not firm moist soil too compactly. Just enough pressure to force out air and fill up the hollows is needed.

NEW CASTLE MODEL TOWN

Harrisburg, March 19 (AP)—The Department of Commerce Thursday cited New Castle as an example of Pennsylvania communities which are turning war-time prosperity to permanent community betterment.

Once a steel town, New Castle lost its "bread and butter" industry in the late thirties but turned its lesson of depression days into building for the post-war era, the department declared.

The community with the war boom took steps to climb above the handicap of a "one industry" town and sponsored new business which led to "an ingenious housing plan" of using existing home units instead of building just for the war.

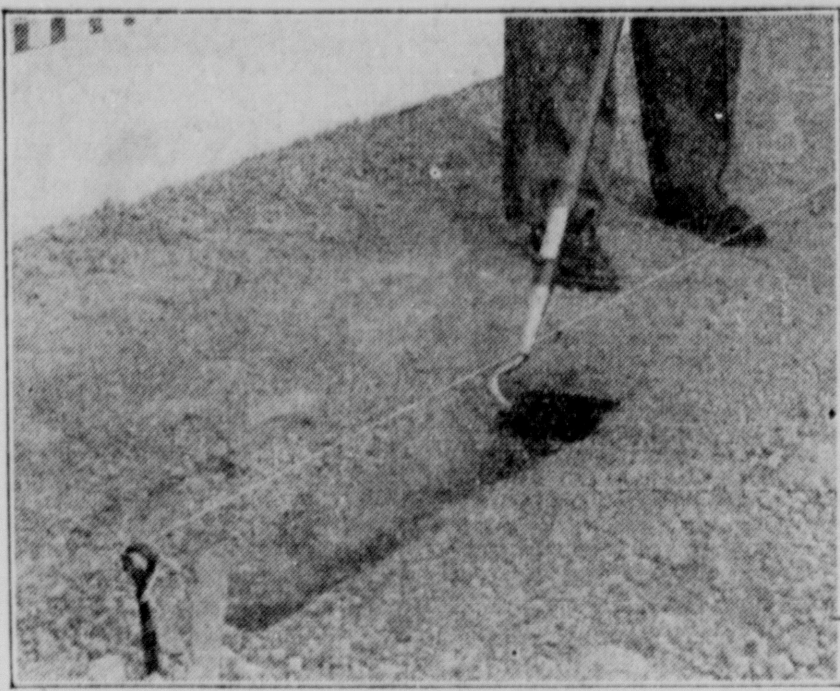

"Today with the new and diversified industries and modernized housing," Roger Jewett, executive vice-president of the Greater New Castle association, declared, "New Castle has a sound foundation for current and post-war growth."

G.O.P. Backing Ruml Tax Plan In House

Washington, March 19 (AP)—House Republicans set a conference Thursday to mobilize party support behind the Ruml plan to achieve pay-as-you-go for income tax payers by skipping a tax year.

Meanwhile, Chairman Doughton (D-N. C.) of the Ways and Means committee, leading democratic opponent of any tax abatement, told newspapermen that "support behind the Ruml plan is waning as the

Straight Rows Save Time In Finest Victory Gardens

Use Stakes and a Heavy Cord to Layout Your Garden Rows

To make a garden drill you need stakes and a heavy cord. These are as necessary in laying out a Victory Garden as in laying out a house.

The entire garden should be outlined so that the rows can be squared with the boundaries. Then place stakes for the first row, and stretch a line between them. Some gardeners use a long straight board rather than a line, but the line will prove more practical, and you will find use for it many times during the garden year. Some sort of reel on which to wind it is well worth while.

Having stretched the line, what comes next? Seeds are sown in rows either in drills, or hills. A drill is a shallow continuous trench, while a hill is not an elevation, except in localities where the rainfall is heavy. It usually means a spot where several seeds are sown in a group, with the groups spaced at equal intervals in the row.

The depth of the drill is important. You often read that seeds should be sown to a depth four times their diameter. But no one tries to measure so exactly. A good general rule

ADMINISTRATION WILL "SWAP" IN POST-WAR PLAN

Washington, March 19 (AP)—The administration may demand extensive revisions as the price of legislative support for a proposal to solidify the United Nations into a working organization to handle the economic and political problems of war and peace.

Dissatisfaction with the form of a resolution introduced by four senators after consultation with President Roosevelt last Sunday was evidenced in administration quarters Thursday and there were reports that the state department might suggest modifications when the matter is considered later by the foreign relations committee.

One Republican member, who declined use of his name, said he and others of the minority would demand that Secretary of State Hull "lay all of the cards" on the table so that the committee might have exact information about the status of our relations with our Allies before it acts on a resolution of such delicate international import.

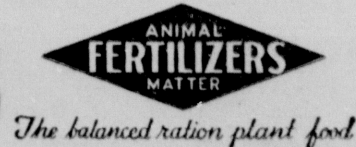

Committee members hoped Thursday to learn from Anthony Eden, British foreign minister, more about the background of relations between Great Britain and the United States at a conference following a luncheon at the capitol.

people begin to understand it."

With President Roosevelt opposed to the Ruml plan and the democratic leadership aligned behind the Ways and Means committee bill making pay-as-you-go optional for any taxpayer who elects to pay off two years' taxes within one year, Speaker Rayburn tentatively set next Wednesday for the start of the storm battle on the House floor.

STREAMLINE GARDENS ARE EASY ON BACK

Victory Gardeners who want good crops with the least work will plant their vegetables in straight rows, spaced far enough apart to enable cultivation to be done with a hoe or wheel hoe, with the gardener standing up.

This is the modern, American way. Gardeners who learned their technique in Europe often broadcast vegetable seeds in beds, with paths between the beds. Then they stand in the paths, bend over, and pull up weeds by hand. This is the practice which started the idea that gardening is backbreaking work.

The bed method has been obsolete for many years in America. In a well planned garden the work can be as light as housework, with no job to be done which is any greater strain than sweeping.

Such a garden requires careful planning to make the rows straight and parallel, so that a cultivator can be quickly run down the aisle between the rows, destroying all weeds and breaking the crust of the soil in a few minutes.

How far apart should the rows be? There is no magic formula for this. Root vegetables, and others which do not grow tall can be spaced as closely as 10 inches in fertile soil; but at this distance it is difficult to cultivate them with tools, without disturbing the roots of your crop.

Space Out Rows
The best method is to figure out what kind of cultivator you are going to use, and how much room between rows is necessary so that you can use it, without getting too close to the vegetables. Make this distance the minimum between your rows, and allow more than this space for crops which grow tall, for those which sprawl or make vines,

Reading Man Keeps 50-Yr. Midnight Tryst

Reading, Pa., March 19 (AP)—Alvah Schaeffer, at 77, kept his annual tryst with the spirit of Tom Hannahoe Wednesday night.

Nearly 50 years ago Schaeffer and his friend, a saloon keeper, agreed that whoever survived the other would honor him at his grave on St. Patrick's day.

Hannahoe died a short time later, and Schaeffer has been at his grave on every St. Patrick's day midnight since. Last night three other Alvah Schaeffers—his son, grandson and great-grandson accompanied him.

F.D.R. TO HEAR LABOR DEMAND

Washington, March 19 (AP)—Labor leaders demanding a relaxation of the government's wage controls will lay their case before President Roosevelt Saturday at a meeting which conceivably may determine the War Labor Board's future.

The occasion is a periodic gathering of labor's victory committee, composed of AFL, CIO and Railroad Brotherhood officials who are critical of the policies which the board is administering.

Already shaken by internal dissension, the WLB faces an onslaught from still another quarter—John L. Lewis of the United Mine Workers. Experienced government observers and for those which make large bushes.

Eighteen inches is a good minimum for most gardens; even a small wheel hoe can be used between rows that close. And when your decision is made, then measure the rows accurately. Don't guess at the distance. Make the rows straight and parallel, and your garden will begin to present a professional appearance from the time the first crops begin to sprout.

SAFETY GLASS DROPS

Pittsburgh, March 19 (AP)—Reflecting the big drop in the demand for safety glass and paints by the automobile industry and restrictions on private construction, the Pittsburgh Plate Glass company annual report today showed its net income before taxes dropped from $30,172,000 in 1941 to $18,748,000 last year.

believe the real crisis in the soft coal wage case will be postponed considerably beyond April 1, when the present agreement expires, but these and other informed sources question whether some measures to bolster WLB prestige and give it a harmonious front can be as long delayed.

COUNCIL MAY CHANGE NAME

Harrisburg, March 19 (AP)—The state defense council is considering changing its name to the Council of Civilian Warfare or some similar title indicative of a war of defensive spirit.

The matter has been on the council of Civilian Warfare or some any action being taken. A change would require legislative action.

Council Director Dr. Ralph C. Hutchison said that "we feel something must be done to arouse the people of Pennsylvania to a more militant and serious attitude towards the war."

"The civilian citizens," he added, "should remove the main idea of defense from their minds and replace it with thoughts and actions for aiding the offensive war against our enemies. The new title suggested for the council would be in line with actions already taken by the federal government and other bodies on similar lines and with like intent."
Dr. Hutchison said adoption of the new designation would not entail any additional expense upon the commonwealth. The thousands of air raid wardens, auxiliary policemen and firemen and other classes of the civilian volunteer force would continue to wear present arm bands and use apparatus bearing the "CD" insignia.

PLAN

What kind of a house would you put here?

AFTER THE WAR, somebody's going to put up a new house on that pretty rise of ground that overlooks the river bend just outside of the town line. Nothing elaborate. Just a pretty little house snuggled into the trees as though it belonged there.

Somebody else may buy the old Ward farm. There should be many a good day's hunting in those rolling fields and back through the woods over to the State road. Fixed up a little bit—and it shouldn't take much money—it would be a livable place for a man and his family.

Yes, somebody's going to buy it. Somebody's always coming along, with a dream and a little money, and doing the things we'd promised ourselves we'd do someday.

But this time, why can't that "somebody" be you?

Look . . . Suppose you put 10% of your pay into War Bonds. At least 10%—more if you possibly can. And KEEP putting it away—putting it away—putting it away. Week after week—payday after payday. Here's what happens:

Before you know it, you get so you hardly miss that money. And if you do miss it, you've got something better to replace it—the knowledge that you, personally, are helping to insure a steady flow of planes and tanks and guns to the men who fight. The knowledge that you, personally, have toed the mark and are helping to win the war.

Then, one of these days, when peace has come again, the money you've put away starts coming back to you. And bringing more money with it—you get four dollars for every three that you put in!

When that day comes, you can get out your pencil and start figuring just what kind of a house you'll put on the river bend.

But to be sure that day does come, you'd better do this: You'd better get out your pencil right now and start figuring how you can save at least 10% of every single pay check with U. S. War Bonds!

Children Changed
Story of Slaying

Pottsville, Pa., March 19 (AP)—Corp. William Keuch of the state motor police said today that Mrs. Stella Sincavage, charged with first degree murder in the stabbing of her husband, instructed her children to tell the police that he was wounded in a fall on a pointed stick.

The children, Joseph and Jean, twins, 16, and Adele, 7, admitted under questioning that they had received the order and then changed their stories, Keuch said.

The father, Joseph, 43, a miner, died Tuesday night in Ashland state hospital. District Attorney C. A. Whitehouse accused Mrs. Sincavage of stabbing him with a file during a quarrel Monday night.

Mrs. Sincavage was arraigned before Alderman Robert J. Kalbach yesterday and ordered held without bail.

Frisch Gets Some
"Extra" Training

Muncie, Ind., March 19 (AP)—Manager Frankie Frisch said he got lost when he started walking to the ball park where the Pittsburgh Pirates began their spring training yesterday, but found his legs were "in pretty fair condition."

"First a dog chased me about half way and later I had to sprint across a railroad track to beat a freight train," Frisch explained. "Then I saw McCulloch field."

Harrisburg, March 19 (AP)—The state Commerce department today cited activities in Uniontown as being outstanding examples of how rubber, gasoline and equipment are being saved in Pennsylvania communities.

ISSUE NARROWS IN MINERS' CASE FOR PAY RAISE

BY JOSEPH A. LOFTUS

Washington, March 19 (AP)—Government and labor quarters saw a strong possibility today that the miners' wage case would be fought finally and perhaps decided on the basis of the underground "travel time" issue, with a federal Appeals Court decision just handed down bolstering John L. Lewis' position.

Industry sources agreed the decision had "tremendous possibilities."

While Lewis was arguing in a New York wage conference for the principle of measuring a miner's working time from the moment he enters the mine until he leaves it, the Fifth Circuit Court of Appeals at New Orleans this week upheld iron ore miners who took that very position in a suit under the Wage and Hour law.

At present, the soft coal miner's work day begins when he reaches the face of the seam of coal, not when he enters the mine. His day ends when he leaves the working place and starts for the mouth of the mine. Lewis contends a man's underground travel time averages an hour and 20 minutes a day, and that he should be paid for it, as are many western metal miners.

If Lewis could plead such a case successfully on a basis of "inequalities," and if payment were made on a daily instead of weekly basis, it would provide the greater part of the $2 increase he is asking, and the War Labor Board's cost-of-living formula would not be disturbed.

Complications Seen
While some persons regarded this as an ingenious, face-saving proposition for the government, there was ample evidence that Lewis intended to press his case. When the issue arose in the wage conference last week he was confronted with a letter addressed to the wage-hour administrator in 1940 by the head of the UMW legal department who agreed that the existing method of measuring working time was satisfactory and should not be disturbed.

Lewis countered with the declaration that the letter "has never been approved or sanctioned by the United Mine Workers" and that the individual had "no authority to bind the United Mine Workers."

Some lawyers saw complications in the possibility that a miner could sue for back wages at penalty rates under such a decision if the Supreme Court upheld it. That demand is a corollary issue of the court decision this week.

Isolation Island

By JOHN C. FLEMING and LOIS EBY

Chapter 16

Landa heard the front door slam and looked up to see the huge bulk of O'Shanessey fill the doorway. His face had gone livid and his deep-set eyes were two red coals burning their gaze into the faces of the two drug buyers. The conversation suddenly froze as four pairs of eyes were intent on the infuriated Irishman.

"Who gave you two permission to land on this island? Why, I've a notion to—!" He shook his great fist threateningly at McCulloch, who sat rigidly in his chair.

It was Landa's voice, softly controlled, that broke into the heavy tension of the moment.

"Now, wait a minute, Uncle Mike," she said. "Half of this island happens to belong to me and it was on my half that these men made a landing. They have my full permission. Not only that, they happen to be guests in my home and as long as they are, they will be treated with the usual hospitality."

Her words carried a firmness that made O'Shanessey know that she meant them exactly as they were spoken.

"I think we are certainly within our rights here, O'Shanessey," McCulloch said evenly. "We're not gangsters or cut-throats here to rob you or coerce you into anything against your wishes. We represent a perfectly legitimate business that happens to need something right now that you have in abundance. We are willing and glad to pay you a fair price."

"Price! bah!" O'Shanessey said with disgust. "That's all you people from the States think about! Money, money, money! That's just another reason why we don't want you down here spoiling the natural tranquility of our island! There's something more in life than money. You wouldn't know about that but there is, and we have that in abundance here too. I suppose you'd like to buy some of that too but it happens to be happiness, one commodity that can't be bought and sold with your dirty dollars!"

McCulloch's sharp eyes looked pleadingly to Landa.

"Maybe tomorrow, we could talk this over, Miss Morrison. We're dreadfully sorry to have caused such a scene."

"Hold on a minute, young man," O'Shanessey said. "I'm old and none too well. I shouldn't let myself get so excited. It's bad for my heart, but I can't sit by and see you two take advantage of a young girl who has had no experience in business. Her father happened to be my lifelong friend and I promised him a thousand times that I would look after her as long as I lived. In intend to do just that, so tomorrow I think you two gentlemen will be leaving our island much too early for any more business talks."

Landa could feel a tidal wave of emotion sweep through her. Her nature instantly resented this being pushed quietly into the background on the premise that she was a child. She cast an imploring look toward Don hoping he would come to her rescue. His eyes were lowered.

Well—if she had to fight her own battles, she could! She turned, her eyes blazing, to face O'Shanessey.

"I'm sorry this had to happen right now in front of strangers," she said in even tones, "but I think it is high time you and I are coming to an understanding, Uncle Mike. In the first place I'm not a child. I'm a grown woman with a perfectly good mind of my own and I mean to use it as God intended I should."

"I don't want this island overrun with strangers any more than you do but there are times when we must think of something else besides our own personal comforts. I think that this time has arrived. We have become smug, complacent, and overworked with our own feeling of self-sufficiency on this island. I felt that recently when I went to the States to school. The world has shrunk since you first came here. We are all neighbors now, and when our neighbors are in trouble it is our place to help them if we can."

There was a long strained moment of silence after Landa's speech. Finally McCulloch rose.

"I think Brown and I will be

High Dribblers Nosed Out 24-21 In Last Minutes

Maroons Lead Veteran Hazleton Quintet In "Dog-fight" Battle More Than Three-quarters Of Game; Outsmart Tricky Opponents Most Of Battle

A stubborn, determined, hard-fighting Gettysburg high school basketball team, outmatched in experience, but never excelled for pluck and courage, fought valiantly but in vain against the power-house men of Hazleton high Tuesday night and for their third consecutive year lost an inter-district cage battle. The final tally was 24 for Hazleton, 21 for Gettysburg.

But in their defeat, by one of the narrowest margins Hazleton has won by this year, the Men of Gettysburg carved out new laurels for the basketball standard of historic Gettysburg high.

Gain New Laurels

Before a jam-packed audience, conservatively estimated at 3,800 fans in Rockne Hall, at Allentown, the Forney-coached tribe of dribblers rose to new heights and won the major plaudits of an enthusiastic and wildly-screaming aggregation of fans and fannettes from all over the state. There was a large delegation of G-burg rooters that packed Rockne hall and to the man they are shouting the praises of a glorious band of youthful warriors who fought against odds to keep their PIAA colors untarnished.

There are no alibis today for the Men of G-burg. There are no bowed heads. The gallant crew who defended the maroon and white colors demonstrated to the thrill-crazed fans and especially to their foe that Gettysburg always goes down fighting, whatever the odds and whatsoever the result may be.

Match Experienced Skill

From the opening whistle to midway in the final period the "Little Bullets" clung desperately to the lead. They forged to the front at the start, matched the experienced skill of their highly-favored opponents who resorted to every trick in their massive bagful, only to go down, with their colors flying, in the final minutes of play.

It was a dog-fight the whole way.

Hazleton trailed from the opening gun to the middle of the fourth period. They had been top-favorites of practically every cage follower and high ranking dopesters had picked them to win easily. It was anything but easy.

In the closing minutes of the final session, DeGatis looped a follow-up shot to place Hazleton in the lead for the first time 21-20. Chirico zoomed a one-hander to seal the fate of the Maroons. McLaughlin and Moran registered foul shots and that was the ball game.

There is more glory and color for the Maroons in defeat than there is for Hazleton in victory.

Overflow Crowd

Rockne Hall, the home court of Allentown Central Catholic high, has the largest seating capacity of any schoolboy gymnasium in the state and it was jammed to overflowing. The crowd was estimated at approximately 3,800.

Tuesday's setback marked the third straight year that the Maroons have gone into the PIAA district playoffs but on each occasion they dropped their first tilt. However, the Forney-men put up a far better exhibition against the Mountaineers than they did against Mahanoy City and Lower Merion in 1941 and 1942, respectively.

Stalwarts for the Maroons were Bud Boehner and Bobby March who tallied 16 points between them. Boehner was forced out of the game in the last quarter on fouls and his absence for a while in the third period after having drawn his third foul, was sorely felt.

Boehner, March Star

The lanky Maroon center led the scoring for the evening and was a power on defense. March thrilled the crowd with three beautiful long shots and played a brilliant floor game.

Ross Sachs was pitted against Captain Hunky Moran, one of the cleverest ball handlers in the state, and the pair put up a thrilling battle. Sachs failed to break into the scoring but was his usual cool self in setting up the Maroons' attack.

Don Wickerham was a steady performer throughout and landed a pair of pretty tosses in the first period to enable the locals to lead at the end of the quarter.

George Fair played a grand game under the hoops and held the usually high-scoring DeGatis to seven tallies.

Excellent guarding by both teams kept the scoring to a minimum throughout.

Wickerham Lands Two

Hazleton blew four straight chances from the foul line to open the game. Chirico missed two free throws about a minute after play opened and a few seconds later Smith also failed on two charity tosses. After about four minutes of (Please Turn to Page 2)

Blaze Destroys Canning Firm's Garage, Storage

For the second time in less than four months, property of the Orrtanna Canning company was destroyed by fire early Sunday evening when flames consumed a garage and storage building and most of its contents just across the road from the site of the factory building which was levelled by fire on December 3.

Loss in Sunday's blaze was estimated at about $5,000 by Howard Musselman, sales manager for the company, who said he believed most of the damage is covered by insurance. Loss from the December blaze was placed at $175,000.

Blame Defective Wiring

In Sunday's blaze as in the earlier conflagration, there was nothing to indicate incendiarism, Mr. Musselman said. Corporal Earl Moore, of the Gettysburg substation of the state motor police, was at the scene Sunday evening. He said he learned the fire started near an electric switch box and apparently was due to defective wiring.

The Gettysburg Fire company sent three pieces of apparatus to Orrtanna and Cashtown and Fairfield fire companies also sent their pumpers. The flames were discovered about 5:15 o'clock.

The building which was destroyed was the former Weaver W. Zimmerman garage building which had been purchased by the Orrtanna Canning company for use as a warehouse and shop and for the storage of materials salvaged from the December fire. The structure, part of it a two-story affair, measured 60 x 100 feet and combined under one roof three smaller buildings of metal, frame and brick with connecting doors.

Save Trucks, Cars

Two trucks belonging to the canning company and three passenger cars owned by members of the Zimmerman family were saved but quantities of pipes, pipe fittings and other metal salvaged from the first fire lay in the ruins of the garage building. Whether they now have any salvage value could not be stated today.

A half dozen new tires for company trucks, worth an estimated $300, and new electrical equipment worth several hundred dollars were consumed along with a quantity of lumber and machine accessories.

A brick warehouse building which stood about 50 feet east of the blazing garage was saved by a hastily formed bucket brigade until firemen arrived. A wooden porch on the warehouse was charred by the heat.

The canning company had been engaged recently in moving its equipment and materials into the building in preparation for complete occupancy by April 1.

A large tank containing an estimated 1,500 gallons of fuel oil stood near the garage building and was endangered by the heat.

The Zimmerman residence, which is to serve as an office for the canning company, was not damaged by the blaze.

MRS. F. M. BREAM DIES SUDDENLY

Mrs. Minnie B. Bream, 72, wife of F. Mark Bream, died suddenly Thursday at 11:40 a. m. at her home, 202 Carlisle street, from a cerebral hemorrhage.

She had suffered a slight stroke last November 16 and had been in ill health and practically bedfast since that time.

Mrs. Bream was a native of McKnightstown and was a daughter of the late John C. and Catherine (Plank) Lower. She had lived in Gettysburg for the last 47 years. On March 28, she and Mr. Bream would have marked their fiftieth wedding anniversary.

The deceased was a member of Christ Lutheran church.

The only survivors are Mr. Bream and a daughter, Mrs. W. S. Melinger, Leontina, Ohio.

Funeral services from the Bender funeral home Saturday afternoon at 3 o'clock with her pastor, the Rev. Dwight F. Putman, and Dr. Herbert C. Alleman officiating. Interment in Evergreen cemetery.

Young Officer Is Given Promotion

Second Lieutenant Clarence W. Epley, Jr., Gettysburg, has been promoted to the rank of first lieutenant.

Lieutenant Epley, who is serving with the American forces in North Africa, was commissioned an officer in the Army at the age of 18, the youngest countian to achieve that grade. Shortly after passing his 19th birthday he received his promotion.

The young officer is a graduate of Culver Military academy, Culver, Ind. He was a freshman at Gettysburg college when he entered service.

Miss Longanecker Is WAAC Officer

Miss Reida Longanecker, Gettysburg, has been commissioned a Third Officer in the Women's Army Auxiliary Corps.

She was selected for Officer training on the basis of her ability and record of work as an Auxiliary in the WAAC. Third Officer is the WAAC equivalent of Second Lieutenant.

She will be assigned to an executive position in the WAAC corps immediately taking over a non-combatant Army job releasing a soldier for combat duty.

MARRIED MEN ARE INCLUDED IN APRIL CALL

Adams county's Selective Service boards will be dipping heavily into the married men category beginning with the May call, a survey of the boards disclosed Thursday.

Local Board No. 2 at Gettysburg plans to send its first contingent of married men with the April call, notices for which have been mailed. A few beneficiaries round out a list made up mostly of 18-year-olds and a few older men.

Board No. 1 at New Oxford has been able to fill its coming quota with 18 to 20-year-old youths and a few older 1-A men and expects to be able to call its May quota from the 18-year-olds with possibly a few married men.

The Gettysburg May call, according to present indications, will be filled with married men. The April call, it was said today, will exhaust the 18-year-olds with not enough youths expected to become 18 during the coming month to fill the May list. While the New Oxford board has reported over 20 registrations of 18-year-olds during February and 15 so far this month, the Gettysburg board had only five 18-year registrations during February and only a few so far in March.

Start Reclassification

The Gettysburg board has already called up a number of married men for local "screening tests" while the New Oxford board expects to start tests of married men in the near future. A few men formerly classified in 4-F and who had been rejected in previous army examinations have also been called up by the local boards.

Reclassification of the men is starting with a larger number of former 3-A men expected to be reclassified into 1-A. A number will be put into deferred classifications, particularly farmers.

The "boards" are examining men according to their order numbers with the lowest numbers being called first and beginning with the men who registered in the first registration in 1940. The boards are culling their lists for all registrants in the childless, married class in all of the six registrations, except the fourth, which was for men 45 to 65 years of age.

Call Students Soon

The officials made it plain that the childless married class included only men married prior to the start of the war, with men married after that time being inducted as if they were unmarried. Children born on or after September 23, 1942 are not considered as dependents.

Neither of the local boards has started reclassification of men between 38 and 45 years as yet, it was stated, regardless of the categories into which the men fall. It is not clear as yet, they said, whether this group will be called into the army.

A few local high school seniors will be called up for induction after June 1, although they have already reached 18 years of age, it was stated. The youths have received deferments to complete their school year and will be called at that time. The number of such youths is very small, it was stated, and some would have received deferments as farmers.

Abbottstown Man Hurt In Accident

Samuel J. Diehl, 52, West King street, Abbottstown, suffered head injuries in an accident while at work in the plant of the Colonial Casting company, Hanover street, New Oxford, about 7:15 o'clock Wednesday morning. According to a member of the company, Mr. Diehl had been sledging a gate from a casting when the sledge rebounded striking him on the forehead. Dr. Wilbur Miller, New Oxford, was summoned and administered first aid.

Diehl was removed in the Hanover ambulance to the Hanover General hospital where he was admitted as a patient. X-rays of the head were to be made to determine the extent of the injuries which were described as not serious.

C. A. Williams, 72, Postmaster Here Nine Years, Dies

Charles A. Williams, 72, Gettysburg's postmaster for the last nine years and one of the town's best known citizens, died suddenly Monday morning at 1:15 o'clock at his home, 42 Hanover street.

POSTMASTER WILLIAMS

He was stricken a few hours after he had retired in apparently usual health. A physician was summoned but death had occurred almost instantly. Dr. C. G. Crist, the county coroner, listed coronary embolism as the cause.

A wide circle of friends here was shocked to learn of the death of Mr. Williams who had a broad acquaintance in business, political and fraternal groups. He was a veteran of the Spanish American war and belonged to several veterans' organizations here.

Mr. Williams' death came 16 days before he would have retired as postmaster after nine years and nine months in office. On December 24 of last year, he announced his intention of retiring March 31.

By a strange coincidence, Monday evening had been selected by local postal employees for a testimonial banquet honoring their retiring chief who always was popular with the members of the postal service here.

AIR CORPS TO USE HUBER HALL AS CAFETERIA

The Army Air Corps will take over Huber Hall on the college campus and the college will take over three fraternity houses to be used as dormitories for the coeds who will be obliged to give up their rooms in the main women's dormitory, it was announced Saturday by Dr. H. W. A. Hanson, president of the college.

At the same time he stated that the college will reconstruct the large Huber hall dining room and equip it with new fixtures so that it may be used as a cafeteria by the Air Corps students who are in training at the college.

New Group April 1

The changes are to be completed by March 31, the college president said. On April 1 the second contingent of students is expected to arrive here to begin training similar to that being furnished the first group of the same size which came here by rail on the morning of March 3.

The first group has been using and will continue to use the Huber hall dining room while the changes are being made. After the additional men arrive in April, they will eat in two shifts, Dr. Hanson said.

Doctor Hanson said the three fraternity houses to be taken over by the college as quarters for the coeds leaving Huber hall have not yet been selected. Each will have a house-mother and will be operated under the same system now used at the off-campus houses — Aughinbaugh Hall and Myrtle Terrace.

Use 3 Dormitories

When the Air Corps takes over Huber Hall on April 1, the three largest dormitories on the campus will be filled with soldiers—Old Dorm and McKnight Hall on the men's campus and Huber Hall, Stevens Hall on the Women's Division campus will continue to be used by women students, Doctor Hanson stated.

During this week, the college was known to have been negotiating with Luther I. Sachs for use of the former Trimmer store room on York street as a dining room for the soldiers. Those plans were said to have been dropped Friday.

SELLS DAIRY FARM

Arthur M. Olson has sold his 137-acre dairy farm in Cumberland township on the Taneytown road, four miles from Gettysburg, together with all stock and equipment and crops to N. Gerry Wright of Tacoma Park, Maryland. Immediate possession will be given. The sale was made by C. A. Heiges, Buford avenue.

He was a member of local units of the United Spanish War Veterans and the Veterans of Foreign Wars. He also was a member of the Gettysburg camp of the Sons of Union Veterans of the Civil war and was (Please Turn to Page 2)

McSherrystown Gives $936 To Red Cross Fund

McSherrystown's Red Cross workers headed by the Rev. Patrick F. McGee, Tuesday morning turned in $936.10 as that community's first contribution to the War Fund.

The McSherrystown Red Cross and other contributions received late Monday and Tuesday sent the current total up to $6,986.16, approximately 37 per cent of the county goal.

Pather McGee told Red Cross officers that Tuesday's report is not final and that he expects McSherrystown's total donations to the War Fund to pass the $1,000 mark.

McSherrystown was the first community outside of Gettysburg from which contributions were received but a telephone report from Littlestown Tuesday morning stated that the Red Cross committee there already had collected more than $1,600 with the campaign yet incomplete. This total is not included in the current amount.

Similar reports of "splendid success" with the War Fund campaign are being received from other county communities. Henry M. Scharf, War Fund campaign chairman, said Tuesday.

The Murphy Co., Gettysburg, contributed $75 and announced that all of its employees in the store made individual donations totaling $29.

These other donations were acknowledged: Christian Endeavor society of the Biglerville United Brethren church, $10; Thomas W. Hummelbaugh, $10; Lippy's, $10; Blocher's jewelry store, $10; Mrs. E. Mae Beales, $10; Woman's Society of Christian Service of the Methodist church, $10; Mr. and Mrs. R. W. Wentz, $10; Mitchell's restaurant and grill, $6; Mr. and Mrs. Joe Butt, $4; Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Swinn, $4; Willis L. Weikert, $4 in addition to a previous donation.

More Than 1000 Telephone Calls For Game Score

Hundreds of enthusiastic basketball fans, unable to attend the Gettysburg-Hazleton game in Allentown Tuesday evening, had their lust for score-news satisfied by a public feature of The Gettysburg Times.

Announcement that the score by periods would be available at The Times' office kept a staff of men and women busy for more than two hours pouring out the desired information.

Tuesday night's interest reached a new peak when 661 calls flashed through The Times telephone system, in two hours.

But the peak was not reached at The Times office.

According to a "peg count" made at the telephone exchange, through which all calls had to be made, operators reported today that their total topped the one thousand mark, the largest number of calls "plugged in" for a single event over a specified time in Gettysburg.

Board Is Jammed
"The exchange board was a blinding flash of lights, one operator reported. 'The three trunk lines in The Times' office were in use almost constantly and it required two operators to handle the calls. A good portion of the work required an 'all three lines busy at The Times' office' response as eager fans jammed the phone board."

The Times' staff recorded 67 calls the first ten minutes; 362 calls the first hour and 661 calls in two hours. Twenty-one additional calls were recorded from 10 p. m. to 10:30 o'clock.

The Times is grateful for the opportunity to serve Gettysburg. Those who placed the calls used a minimum of time on the phone thus releasing the wire for other interested fans. However, more than 400 calls were not recorded in The Times' office because of "busy lines."

To those telephone operators who so graciously handled the calls for their patience and their courteous treatment; for the kindly manner in which they accepted and executed their difficult assignment... our sincerest thanks. It was a grand job well done.

PROMOTED TO CORPORAL

Robert A. Smith, son of Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Smith, has recently been promoted to the grade of Corporal in the army air corps. Cpl. Smith is stationed at the army air field, Walla Walla, Washington. He has previously been located at Salt Lake City, Utah and Brookings, South Dakota.

DEFENSE CORPS TAKES LOYALTY, SERVICE OATH

With uplifted hands 63 Adams countians stood in the court house Friday evening and took an oath to serve in Company 1A of the Pennsylvania Reserve Defense Corps Auxiliary "Until Victory unless sooner discharged by proper authority."

The men, who will form Adams county's "home guard" in the protection of vital installations in event of emergency, were given their oath by Judge W. C. Sheely, chairman of the Adams County Council of Defense.

The oath was given after 60 enlisted men and three officers signed the official muster rolls in the presence of Col. John M. Shade of the state adjutant general's office and a gathering of friends and civic representatives.

Captain C. Arthur Brame, commanding Adams county's company of two platoons, six squads and a headquarters unit, was in charge of the exercises.

The county company, which will not be uniformed by the state and will furnish all of their own equipment, will have the use of the state armory, located in Gettysburg, Colonel Shade has announced. The armory in Gettysburg, Colonel Shade announced. The armory has been unused for the greater part of the time since Adams county's company of the Pennsylvania National Guard was called into service two years ago.

Youngest member of the county company is 13-year-old Edgar S. Moser, Gettysburg, who enlisted as a private and has been named company bugler. He served in that capacity at the ceremonies Friday evening sounding the call to the colors to open the exercises.

The colors were advanced by Sergeant Raymond Strohm, of the Gettysburg college ROTC, and Donald Staub, Gettysburg, who were the blue of the U. S. Navy in which he is serving. Carrying rifles as color guards were Albert Cardenti of the American Legion, in the uniform of that organization, and George N. Coshun, commander of the Gettysburg camp of the Sons of Veterans, who wore a blue uniform.

The invocation was given by the Rev. Fr. Patrick F. McGee, rector of St. Mary's Catholic church, McSherrystown. Eddie Moser in a Boy Scout uniform and Girl Scout Jane Ramer led the assembly in the oath of allegiance.

Colonel Shade in an address to the company commended the men "for this patriotic gesture." He displayed the official armbands for the members of the company—a dark blue band with the outline of Pennsylvania superimposed in deep yellow with the letters PDRC Aux. printed thereon.

The speaker said that there are bills pending in the Legislature which would provide remuneration for the services of the members of the Corps and which would make them eligible for workmen's compensation in case of injury on duty. He emphasized the fact that the Corps will act only on the orders of the governor.

bitter playing DeGatis slipped away for a "peep" shot. Wickerham quickly tied the score with a long side toss. Boehner missed a foul but came right back to send the Maroons ahead when he converted two more. Moran looped a one-hander from the side with about two minutes of play remaining in the period. Shortly before the quarter ended Wickerham connected on a one-handed toss to give Gettysburg a 6-4 advantage at the close of the round.

Hazleton forged into the lead early in the second period but this margin was quickly erased. Chirice opened with a foul conversion and Moran dribbled under the hoop for a lay-up. Boehner whipped in a toss as he was fouled. March drew a foul try and converted and then cut loose with a toss from mid-court which found its mark to send the Maroons out in front 11-7. Meinhold blew a foul throw and then DeGatis got away for another "peep" to make the score 11-9 with three and a half minutes of play remaining. Fissel replaced Boehner and Spahr went in for Wickerham. The final minutes of the half were furiously fought without a score. Meinhold and Sachs missed fouls in the closing minutes.

Opening the third quarter Boehner and Wickerham re-entered the game. Meinhold landed a long shot in the first half minute of play. March put Gettysburg ahead 13-11 with another long toss after three minutes. Boehner leaped into the air to land a goal from the foul line with four and a half minutes gone. Bellizia replaced Meinhold for Hazleton.

DeGatis netted a foul and then looped a long throw from the pocket but Boehner was good for a short goal to keep the Maroons ahead 17-14. Fissel went in for Fair and Spahr for Wickerham. Moran looped a foul and just before the period ended March sank his third goal from midcourt to give Gettysburg a 19-15 advantage going into the final period.

Chirice missed a foul to open the last round. Fair replaced Boehner who had drawn his third foul on the play. Moran netted the second of his two free throws and Fair missed a toss from the charity line. Bellizia brought the Hazleton fans to their feet when he looped a goal and tied the score at 19-19 on a conversion after being fouled on the play. Peripizio replaced Chirice for the Mountaineers, and Boehner and Wickerham re-entered the game for Gettysburg.

Joe Takes Lead
Boehner drew a free throw and put the Maroons ahead 20-19 with four minutes remaining. After Moran missed a long shot DeGatis took the ball off the back-board to sink a follow-up as Hazleton went out in front 21-20. Boehner went out on fouls with two and a half minutes remaining and with him went the ball game. McGlaughlin took Boehner's place in the lineup. Chirice was awarded a foul toss when the Maroons began crowding their opponents to secure possession of the ball. He missed the foul but recovered the ball off the hoop to land a death-dealing goal.

Coach McGeehan's outfit then began a neat bit of stalling. Finally McGlaughlin drew a free throw and promptly converted to make the score 23-21 with less than two minutes remaining. Ogden replaced McGlaughlin. Gettysburg tried in vain to get the ball and in their desperate attempts Moran drew a foul and converted to finish the scoring.

Hazleton, District 11 titlists, will now meet Berwick, District 2 champions, in the Eastern semi-final game on the Rockne Hall floor Saturday evening.

College Choir Gives Benefit To Overflow Crowd, Sunday

Christ Lutheran church was jammed to capacity Sunday evening to hear the Gettysburg college choir present Theodore Dubois' cantata "The Seven Last Words of Christ."

Folding chairs were placed in the aisles and the rear of the church and several hundred were turned away before the opening number of the cantata. It was the largest audience to hear a college choir concert in Gettysburg.

A free will offering, taken by volunteers from the Red Cross chapter, netted $143.53 for the Red Cross War Relief Fund.

Comments were profuse and generous at the close of the concert many expressing the belief that the choir rendered the finest performance of its career.

The robed choristers made an attractive appearance and each member seemed in good voice throughout the cantata presentation under the direction of Parker B. Wagnild.

It was the only public appearance in Gettysburg of the choir this year. The war and transportation problems also compelled the choir to cancel a road tour.

Soloists at Sunday's concert were forceful in their rendition of inspiring numbers and the responsiveness of the audience was only manifest at the conclusion of the concert when loud praises were heard on all sides.

All expenses incurred in presenting the cantata were assumed by the choir.

Rotarians Elect Five Directors

Five directors were elected by the Rotary club at its meeting Monday night at the YWCA. They included Dr. Frederick Tilberg, Samuel G. Spangler, Walter Africa, William C. Tyson and James S. Cairns.

A round-table discussion on "Service Clubs in the Present Crisis" was held with four members of the club taking part. Vernon Corle, James S. Cairns, James P. Cairns and J. I. Burgoon were the speakers. Twenty-six members and guests attended the session at which President Paul Kinsey presided.

Classical Society Offers Latin Medal

The Gettysburg college chapter of Eta Sigma Phi, national honorary classical fraternity, announces that it will award a Virgilian medal to each fourth-year Latin student in Gettysburg high school who has maintained an "A" average in the study of Latin in his senior year. The award is to take the place of a $5 prize which the fraternity heretofore has given to the winner of a special Latin examination given all fourth-year Latin students in the county. The examination was dropped this year because of transportation difficulties.

Dr. John G. Glenn and Prof. Frederick Shaffer are the sponsors of the fraternity.

FARMERS MAY SECURE LOANS FOR CROP, FEED

Farmers in Adams county are asked to materially increase their acreage of food and other vital crops this season, according to E. M. Newton, Jr., acting regional manager of the Emergency Crop and Feed Loan office, Baltimore, and for their convenience G. Marion Stambaugh, of the Farm Bureau here has been designated to receive applications for crop and feed loans.

"The farmers of America are faced with the greatest demand for food the world has ever seen and sufficient production will be had only if every individual farmer in each county contributes his share by increasing the acreage of vital crops. The goals which have been set by the department of Agriculture and county war boards must be met," he said.

Mr. Newton pointed out that the Emergency Crop and Feed Loan section of the Farm Credit Administration is cooperating by financing those farmers who are eligible, helping them to expand production thereby enabling them to meet and, if possible, surpass the food production goals. He stated that farmers who lack the required security for loans from local banks but whose family labor and land could be put to fuller use in the war program if funds were available, can obtain crop or feed loans. These loans range from $10 to $400 depending upon the acreage or the quantity of livestock or poultry to be fed. The interest rate is 4 per cent per year, and loans obtained in the spring are due the following fall with the understanding that repayment will be made from the sale of the crop or livestock financed.

He reported that already a number of farmers in Adams county have obtained crop or feed loans, and that others who wish to apply should contact Mr. Stambaugh or a representative at Abbotstown at 1 p. m. on March 30, or 2:30 p. m. in the court house here the same day.

KITCHEN FIRE IN FAIRFIELD

Damage estimated at from $1,000 to $1,500 resulted when fire destroyed a two-story outkitchen at the rear of the dwelling of Fred Johnson, near Reindollars store in Fairfield about noon Saturday. The cause of the blaze was not determined.

The flames filled the building while Fairfield firemen lost time in getting their fire equipment to the scene. Firemen said that although the fire truck had been used a day or two before the fire, they had difficulty starting the motor.

Cashtown and Gettysburg companies were called to the scene and aided in checking the flames before they spread to the main dwelling. The main part of the house suffered smoke and water damage.

A stove and a number of pieces of furniture stored in the outkitchen were removed by neighbors and firemen. Household goods in other parts of the structure were lost.

Part of the loss was said to be covered by insurance.

G. H. S. Debaters Win And Lose Friday

Gettysburg high school's affirmative debating team won over a squad from West York high by the unanimous vote of three judges in a contest conducted at the high school here last Friday afternoon. The negative team from Gettysburg high was defeated at Hanover in another debate on the same afternoon by a two-to-one vote.

George Raffensperger, Jr. and Lois Hanawalt were the Gettysburg high school speakers in the debate held here. The judges for the contest were the Rev. Dwight P. Putman, Pvf. Mahlon P. Hartzell, Jr., and Richard C. Lighter.

In both contests the question of the establishment of a federal union of nations after this war furnished the subject.

CHARLES HUBER TELLS ROUTINE OF MERCY UNIT

Charles H. Huber, Jr., son of Dr. and Mrs. Charles H. Huber, Carlisle street, who has enlisted in the American Field Service, is enroute or has arrived at a destination somewhere in Africa, according to letters received from the young man last week.

Young Huber will serve with the British and American forces, carrying and caring for the wounded, evacuating hospitals and other duties.

Excerpts from these letters, containing interesting information on the activities and daily routine of this group of young men, have been made available to The Gettysburg Times as follows:

"Writing enroute to unknown destination on British hospital ship 'Atlantis'. I can't tell you our port of departure or that of our arrival. The latter I do not know.

Ship Unconvoys

"We have come so far on our way unconvoys; our only protection the sign of the Red Cross painted large on ship sides and the flood lights which play over our decks all night showing the enemy we are a ship of mercy and unarmed. It is a great comfort to me that we have reached this port unattacked—not only for myself alone but safety for the 68 fine men in my care.

"At this port enroute our mail will be sent home. No one will be permitted to land as the city is plague ridden and has been since the days of 'Anthony Adverse'.

"We are busy all day with our schedule which runs as follows: Breakfast at 7:30, quarters inspected at 8:30, calisthenics and drills 10. First aid taught by medical men at 11. Dinner at 12. At 4 p. m. Arabic map reading taught by a student of Arabic. Following this come lectures. There is always a half hour for tea with dinner at 6 and lights out at 11.

"I have in my group a most exceptional lot of fine men—college students by the barrel, the majority of them from Harvard and Yale with two from the University of Virginia and other institutions. Two college professors, an actor (played in Claudia) and several young business men including a mortician and a number of fine young Jewish boys.

Squads Inter-Mingle

"In between the scheduled hours given I have many meetings with my squad leaders and with the officers who are of the Royal British Medical Corps. They occupy the decks above. They very kindly invited me as 'captain' of this AFS unit to share quarters and mess with them. I declined preferring to stay with my contingent and am most content to do so. However, we do mix frequently as they attend our lectures and visit with us. I did accept their invitation to me and my 'lieutenants' to attend their dances which we enjoy very much. They are a large number of doctors and nurses.

"On Sundays they come to our meetings. We have an English rector and a Catholic priest on board, both delightful men whom we all enjoy. Every night at dinner we sing our National Anthem. At services we join them in 'God Save the King.' The English surely liked us on the selection of a tune for the national anthem!

"The British didn't quite know what to make of us at first as we were neither fish nor fowl. They were soon straightened out.

Jim Jeffries Rated By Morgan As Greatest Heavyweight Boxer In History

JACK JOHNSON IS SELECTION OF JOHNSON

By DILLON GRAHAM
New York, March 16 (AP)—Dumb Dan Morgan was heard to give a derisive snort when the scrambled syntax boys along Busted Beak Boulevard were gabbling about Jimmy Johnson's recent literary effort, a discussion of our heavyweight champions. Dan's expressive outburst came when it was remarked that Jimmy had selected Jack Johnson as the greatest of the heavyweights.

The reasons for the snort were three-fold: To assert his contempt for the choice, to gain attention and the floor, and to have the conversational ball passed to him. Once in possession, Dan is one of the slipperiest broken field runners, on a wet or dry field, seen in these parts in years. In fact, there is no landmark on Broadway who remembers anyone ever stopping him, once Dan cleared his throat and got off to a running start.

"Jack never saw the day," Dumb Dan solemnly announced, "that he could whip old Jeff."

"No, sire, not in a million Sundays. There's never been a champion like Jim Jeffries."

"He was fast and he hit hard and he couldn't be hurt and, too, he was a pretty fair boxer."

"I'll agree that Johnson was a great fighter, the greatest defensive fighter we've ever had, but better than Jeff? No."

"Why, I'd say we've had—the business of thinking and finger counting—we've had maybe five champions I'd rate as better all-around men than Johnson."

Dempsey Third
"They'd be, after Jeffries, first, Corbett. Now there was a dandy man, swift as light, half the time you couldn't see him, let alone hit him. One of the best boxers we've had. And I'd put Jack Dempsey right up there after Corbett. He could hit and he could take it, he had a weaving style that bothered a lot of fellows, and he was a better boxer than most people gave him credit for being."

"And after Dempsey would come Ruby Robert Fitzsimmons, I think Fitz was the hardest one-punch hitter of them all. Gosh, how he could belt. Not many got up off the floor if Fitz ever got a good clean swipe at 'em."

"John L. Sullivan would have beaten Johnson, too. John L. was a fairly good boxer and a straight right hand puncher."

"Jack wouldn't have been a push-over for any of them. He'd have put up a good fight, but I can't see him beating any of those five."

"Jeffries, though, was tops of them all. He was not only a big man and heavy, 215 pounds, but it was solid flesh. You couldn't hurt him. And he was fast as a streak."

"Did you know that as champions, Jeffries gave both Corbett and Fitz two chances at his title and beat them each time? There he was taking on perhaps the hardest puncher boxing has known, Fitz, and the fastest and most scientific boxer, Corbett, and whipping 'em. You couldn't ask any more of a champion."

"Jeffries would have combined boxing and hitting to beat Dempsey. Jack couldn't have hurt him. Did you know that Jeff was a turned-around southpaw?"

Right behind Johnson, in Dan's opinion, would come Joe Louis. Morgan is an old-time fighter and manager. He had some top-flight battlers and champions two decades ago. Today he is regarded as a student of styles and a chap who is pretty good at picking winners in the ring. He's often hired to teach some fancy pointers to promising youngsters.

Lakewood, N. J.—Who said this spring training in the north was tough, anyway? The New York Giants are saying they never played on such good spring turf as their field here, and Manager Mel Ott is taking advantage of the condition to hold extra long pitching and batting practice.

COUNCIL FAVORS VARSITY SPORTS

The athletic council at Gettysburg college, at a recent meeting, went on record as "favoring the continuance of an inter-collegiate athletic program insofar as manpower and finances will permit."

The council suspended all inter-collegiate activities for the regular spring campaign, with the exception of track and field. Baseball, tennis and the like have been suspended for this year, because of the early closing of the college.

There was no further comment from the college on the action of the athletic council. It is not known whether there will be a varsity sports program next fall.

"MAN O' WAR" NOW RETIRED TO LIFE OF RILEY

Media, Pa. (AP)—Grandpa Man O' War is living the life of Riley in greening pastures now—and Owner Samuel D. Riddle concludes he's earned it.

The 83-year-old sportsman announced that his darling, often called the greatest thoroughbred of them all, has just been retired from stud—on the eve of his 26th birthday March 29—and that the records now show he's been every bit as great a daddie as he was a racer.

The big red outman all comers before he quit the turf in 1921, and now that his career as a sire has ended, Riddle sums up thus:

Since 1861, when the mighty Lexington began sending his progeny to the races, only one American horse has fathered more big-money winners than his favorite. That was Fair Play, and Man O' War had a hand in that performance, for he was one of the six sons of Fair Play who won purses totaling $100,000 or more.

Heavy Winners
Thus far five Man O' War children have earned 100 grand or better. War Admiral won $273,240; Crusader, $203,261; Mars, $128,786; Clyde Van Dusen (Kentucky Derby winner), $122,112, and Bateau, $120,760.

Two of Big Red's grandsons also have hit six figures—Gusto, son of American Flag, collected $151,655, and a reformed no-good get of Hard Tack picked up $437,730. The latter, of course, was Sea Biscuit.

The old guy's line includes in addition such standard jumpers as Brigadier General, and Mrs. Marion DuPont Scott's Battleship, first American-owned, American-bred horse to win the Grand National at Aintree, England.

And no one now can say the book is closed on Man O' War as a progenitor—his blood undoubtedly will be carried on through the centuries.

WEST SHORE TO HAVE 5 TEAMS

A five-team West Shore high school basketball league will play during the 1943-44 season, it was decided at a league meeting Monday night held in Lemoyne high school. New Cumberland high asked to withdraw from the league and the request was granted by the circuit.

However, it was expected that New Cumberland would have a court team in action, and also that at least some, if not all, of the West Shore league teams would play New Cumberland in non-league games next winter.

Karl W. Etshied, of Lemoyne, was elected league president to succeed Robert Noll, formerly of Biglerville, who has left the teaching profession. Eugene Wingert of Enola was elected vice-president and Fred Bower of Camp Hill was chosen secretary-treasurer.

A schedule largely paralleling the past season's card was drawn up and approved. The same number of games is expected to be played.

The meeting was a special session called recently when a deadlock developed over the issue of continuing the league or disbanding.

Biglerville high, which will participate in the loop again next year, was represented by Prof. L. V. Stock, Coach Ellis McCracken and Edgar Benner.

Corpus Christi, Texas (AP)—One of the greatest teams in southwestern basketball history—the Naval Air Station Comets—called it a season Tuesday.

Two victories over the Pensacola, Florida, Naval Air Station Cagers finished a 23-game schedule as stiff as any ever attempted—without a loss.

Los Angeles, Calif. (AP)—The home town has dusted off the laurel wreath again for Bing Crosby.

He was named Southern California's athlete of the month for February. Reason: His newly-won championship of the Lakeside Golf club—which includes many top-notch players—for the third successive year.

HART AWARDED SPORT TROPHY AT GETTYSBURG

Alfred "Al" Hart, of Elkins Park, Middle Atlantic wrestling champion of the 155-pound class, blocking back of the Gettysburg College Bulldogs and a member of the track team for two years, was awarded the Beachem Memorial trophy for 1943 at Gettysburg college, C. E. Bil-heimer, director of athletics at the college, announced at the 7th annual athletes night, Wednesday evening.

"AL" HART

"The award is made to Hart, unanimous choice of the committee, because he was most outstanding in athletics, scholarship and Christian influence on the campus," Mr. Bilheimer said.

Mr. Bilheimer paid tribute to the memory of Charles Beachem, college alumni secretary before his death and a football star during his collegiate days here. He said that the late Mr. Beachem represented the ideals of true sportsmanship.

Show Grid Movies
Because of the emergency of war Hart's trophy will be given him at a later date. His name will be inscribed on a bronze panel on the Beachem plaque in the SCA building.

In accepting the award Hart said: "I feel greatly honored in being selected for this honor. I hope that I can live up to the meaning of the war. I shall always remember Gettysburg for the four happiest years of my life. It has been a pleasure to play for men like Coaches Bream and Deeson."

Other speakers on the program were Dr. Henry W. A. Hanson, Coach Henry T. Bream and Lt. J. F. Green, Professor Lester Johnson was toastmaster.

Moving pictures of highlights of the 1942 football season were shown and refreshments served following the meeting.

New York (AP)—Marine Corp. Barney Ross of Guadalcanal fame, was resting easily Tuesday in the United States Naval hospital at St. Albans, Long Island, after suffering a recurrence of malaria fever last night shortly before he was to appear before 15,000 persons at a Red Cross demonstration.

Physicians said his condition was not serious but gave no indication when the former boxing champion would be released from the hospital.

Hershey, Pa., March 18 (AP)—Johnny Allen, the pitcher the Phils got from Brooklyn in the deal for Rube Melton, is a holdout.

"I haven't heard from him since he returned his contract marked unsatisfactory," Manager Bucky Harris said. "Under the circumstances I guess he could be classed as a holdout."

Muncie, Ind.—The Pittsburgh Pirates arrived in camp Thurs. and were to be hustled into their first workout later in the day. Pitcher Max Butcher conferred with President Bill Benswanger just before the squad left Pittsburgh Wednesday but Benswanger said the two failed to agree on terms.

Cairo, Ill.—Finding his St. Louis Cardinals lagging toward the end of Wednesday's one long workout, Manager Billy Southworth ordered two shorter sessions effective today, broken by a field house luncheon.

"It is my belief the players will go more at top speed all the way if they have two short practices instead of one long one," the pilot explained.

Lafayette, Ind.—The Cleveland Indians held a brisk workout in the Purdue university field house Wednesday.

Russ Peters was at first base, Ray Mack at second, Ken Keltner at third and Lou Boudreau at short. Otto Denning, heir apparent to the first base job left vacant by Les Fleming, missed practice because of a severe cold.

There were only three other absences—Jeff Heath, a holdout; Roy Cullenbine, whose wife is ill, and Chubby Dean, whose tardiness is unexplained.

Philadelphia, Penna. (AP)—Gus Dorazio, Philadelphia heavyweight, has been paired with Giant Willie Thomas for the feature bout on the Cambria boxing program tomorrow night.

Philadelphia, Penna. (AP)—Temple university's baseball squad, preparing for its first game April 8 against the University of Delaware, is facing a pitcher shortage. All four of its 1942 hurlers have been lost, among them Andy Tomasic, credited for seven of the Owls' 11 victories.

Bloomington, Ind.—Skipper Jimmy Wilson of the Chicago Cubs, who taught Buckey Walters of the Cincinnati Reds how to pitch, sent him an entry blank for the high hurdle event at the Chicago track meet next Saturday. Bucky, who landed on the cripple list when he tried the hurdles here Monday, filed the blank in a wastebasket.

Bear Mountain, N. Y.—Curtis Davis has the doubtful honor of being the first Major leaguer to break a bone this year. The Brooklyn Dodger pitcher suffered a fractured left thumb when struck by the ball during an infield workout at West Point fieldhouse Wednesday. He will be able to continue light drills.

Asbury Park, N. J.—"Fireman" Johnny Murphy seems all set for a big year as relief man for the Yankees. Treatments during the winter eased the misery in his right foot, and Wednesday he gave his pitching arm a tentative workout, the results of which filled him with optimism.

Medford, Mass.—The next time the Boston Red Sox go through calisthenics, they want Joe Cronin, who is plenty overweight, to be the leader.

A sad mistake was made Wednesday when Chief Petty Officer Harold Knight, who drills the Tufts College Naval Reservists, was invited to lead the boys in the bends.

He gave them the old Navy routine, and even Tony Lupien, who served as a physical instructor at Harvard all winter, had trouble keeping up with him.

Philadelphia, Penna. (AP)—Joseph's high school won the Catholic league swimming title Wednesday, beating West Catholic, 48-18.

GEORGE DRACHA MENTIONED ON ALL-STATE FIVE

By TED MEIER

Philadelphia, March 15 (AP)—Five towering giants—all over six feet—from Washington-Jefferson, Penn. State, Philadelphia, St. Joseph's, Duquesne and East Stroudsburg, were selected today on the 1943 Associated Press all-Pennsylvania collegiate basketball team.

George Senesky of St. Joseph's and "Pistol Pete" Pasko of East Stroudsburg are repeaters from the 1942 all-star quintet. Pierre (Huck) Hartman, big 6 foot 8 inch center of Washington-Jefferson's flashy prexies; Dave Hornstein, 6:05 Penn State guard, and Stan Noszka of Duquesne, at 6:01, complete the first team selections.

Each of these youths has the coordination that makes for athletic grace. Accurate shots and tricky dribblers, they can lay up hook shots with either hand. On defense they are equally adept. In short they form virtually a dream team.

Wood on 2nd Team
Bill Wood of Villanova, Tay Marlarkey of Pitt, Kasimir Ostrowski of Scranton, Dewey Boltz of Albright and Nelson Bobb of Temple make up a second team with a third quintet composed of Dan Visciarrella of Geneva, Jim Crampsey of Muhlenberg, Chink Crossin of Pennsylvania, Charles Goldblum of Westminster and Todd of Allegheny.

Senesky set a new national season scoring record for so-called "big league" colleges, scoring the nets for 515 points in 22 games. Pasko, who sparked East Stroudsburg through an undefeated season and to 46 victories in 49 games in the last three years, rimmed 247 points in 12 games.

Hartman, a New Kensington boy, was the main reason why W & J was invited to compete in the National invitation tourney at New York's Madison Square Garden against the nation's outstanding teams. Listen to the praise of his coach, Adam Sanders:

Hartman Praised
Hartman is equally good with either his right or left hand on the pivot and has controlled the basketball for us all year. He has not been outplayed by anyone this year, including the Penn State game at State College (which W & J lost, 34-29). He is a good overhead shot and is excellent from the foul line. He is cool, yet aggressive and has been a team worker all year."

Hornstein was the play-maker for Penn State's Nittany Lions, "feeding" the ball a great deal to Von Neida. Yet Hornstein did a lot of scoring himself. Noszka is especially good as set shots, an outstanding performer on a Duquesne team not quite up to the par set by the Debonair Dukes in other seasons.

Three outstanding performers, Billy Binder of Lehigh, George Haines of Bucknell, and Joe Camie of Duquesne, were not considered for the team because they finished their collegiate careers before mid-season.

Second Team
F. Billy Wood, Villanova
P. Tay Marlarkey, Pitt
C. Kasimir Ostrowski, Scranton
G. Dewey Boltz, Albright
G. Nelson Bobb, Temple

Third Team
F. Dan Visciarrella, Geneva
F. Jim Crampsey, Muhlenberg
C. Chink Crossin, Pennsylvania
G. Charles Goldblum, Westminster
G. Todd, Allegheny

Troop 78 Members Visit Local Plant

Eight members of Troop 78 of the Boy Scouts, accompanied by Scoutmaster Edward Kerrigan and Jack Cossna toured the Victor Products plant on North Washington street Tuesday evening as part of a series of visits to industrial plants in this section.

The trips are to familiarize the scouts with various vocations that can be followed in Gettysburg. Scoutmaster Kerrigan said. Charles Snyder, night foreman at the Victor plant, conducted the scouts through the establishment and explained the machinery and processes.

Pittsburgh—The Pittsburgh Pirates announced the signing of Rookie Infielder James Cullinane and the purchase of five players from the Harrisburg Class C interstate league. They are Shortstop Frank Zak, Pitchers Alfred Jarlett, Steve Korps and Lee Howard and Infielder Pete Castiglione. Zak and Jarlett will report Thursday at Muncie, Indiana, but the others are in the armed forces.

Lafayette, Ind.—Lou Boudreau, young boss of the Cleveland Indians, says Otto Denning, reserve catcher who played first base for Minneapolis in the Minors, will be the club's first sacker since Les Fleming is staying out for war work. Outfielder Jeff Heath has returned the Indians second contract unsigned.

Medford, Mass.—Manager Joe Cronin of the Boston Red Sox, apparently needs the spring drill more than any of his athletes. He reported here far above his best playing weight of 190 pounds.

Cape Girardeau, Mo.—Chet Laabs, outfielder, joined the St. Louis Browns Tuesday at the same time Manager Luke Sewell was notified that relief pitcher George Caster had agreed to terms. Catchers Rick Ferrell and Frankie Hayes remain unsigned along with eight other Browns.

Local Fishermen Report Early Catch

Adams county's fishermen are already boasting of the suckers caught in the county streams, County Treasurer John W. Brehm reported today. Of the 250 Waltonians who have purchased licenses quite a number have come back to tell him fishing is excellent, the treasurer said.

Last year there were nearly 2,000 licenses sold with the rush to secure the permits beginning early in April, in preparation for the opening date of the trout season, April 15.

All of Adams county's streams have been stocked with most of them being stocked twice this winter, it was stated. The Adams county Fish and Game association will complete the stocking Thursday when fish will be placed in Carbaugh's run, Little and Big Marsh creek, Middle creek and Tom's creek, it was announced.

BOEHNER PAGES HIGH SCORERS ON 133 POINTS

Bud Boehner, Gettysburg high center, who proved to be one of the most consistent performers in the playoff games, carried off the high individual scoring honors for the season records reveal today.

Boehner landed 53 goals, made good on 27 of 51 foul shots for a total of 133 points in 16 games.

Captain Ross Sachs and Bobby March were close on the heels of the Maroon center with identical totals of 124 points. Each tabbed 50 goals and each looped 24 fouls. Sachs was granted 34 free tosses and March but one more.

The Maroons, who won the Southern Pennsylvania league and District 3 championships for the third successive year, compiled a record of 14 wins and but two setbacks. The reverses were by Delone Catholic, 31-29, and by Hazleton, 24-21.

Coach George Forney's clan scored a total of 618 points on 253 goals and 112 foul conversions in 183 chances. The team averaged 36.6 points per game as against but 23.3 for the opponents who amassed 373 points.

The individual scoring records follow:

Just Folks

By Edgar A. Quest

ON GUARD

One at night, from seven to seven, above, the wide and starry Heaven!
elow, the hardened, crumpling
snow,
Which I go pacing, to and fro.

One when all the camp's asleep!
ave those of us who watch must keep,
nd back and forth until the day
last pace the tedious hours away.

One time was in school I used to look
t stars within my nature book, ut those are real stars I see,
hose light is coming down to me.

One watch them glister on the snow
e did the shepherds long ago nd wish I could the names recall in guard throughout the night I stay
If stars and planets, one and all.

One and Heaven, which once seemed far away,
When all the stars are shining clear
Now so real, and O, so near!

THE JEEP

American Jeeps are being used in England for spring plowing.
lough and rugged little jeep,
Built for service under fire,
limbing roads however steep,
Pushing on through mud and mire,
Carrying generals to and fro,
Bringing back some wounded boy,
Now to gentler work you go,
Work your driver should enjoy.

lough and rugged little jeep,
When the springtime comes again
Now the furrows straight and deep
For the autumn's golden grain.
Though for battle you were made
And your sides are thickly steeled,
Now you draw a kinder blade
Over many an English field.

lough and rugged little jeep,
When the victory is won
And peace is ours to keep
And this dreadful war is done,
This forevermore we ask
When the spring returns again
You shall know no heavier task
Than to plow the field for grain.

QUATRAINS

A Card
The bloom is on the cherry tree
But all unseen 'twill pass,
may not ride the country side
On just four gals of gas.

Wife in Uniform

She wears it with a jaunty air
And is so spick and span never thought that one so fair
Could be so brave a man!

War Sacrifices

These for duration I must take:
Supper without pie or cake;
Lustre trousers, collars frayed;
Shaving still with last week's blade.

Creed

Quarrel over creed? Not I.
Though we disagree,
Who to live his creed will try
Will a good man be.

A SOLDIER'S PRAYER

Now I lay me down to sleep,
I pray the Lord my gun to keep
Please let no other soldier take
My socks or shoes before I wake.

Please keep me safely in the night

So I don't waken up in fright
And in the morning let me wake
Breathing scents of stirlion steak.

Spare me Lord from hikes and drills

And when sick don't feed me pills
Should I hurt this head of mine
Please paint it not with iodine.

Take me on into the land

Where they march without a band
Where no pesky bugles blow
And little women wash the clothes.

In a cozy feather bed

Their I long to lay my head
Far away from camping scenes
And the smell of half baked beans.

Dear Lord Thou knowest every care

Will You please listen to my prayer
Please hasten days of peace again,
Dear calm and driftless Lord, Amen.

Portland, Ore. (AP)—Police saw a man leaving a hardware store, his overcoat bulging. They charged with shoplifting. The bulge turned out to be an anvil.

FATHER FIXES

Denver (AP)—Jack Cody, 7, fell into a cactus patch—but father knew what to do. Dr. Glen Cody got busy with his dental forceps. A hospital examination afterward showed the extractions were 100 per cent effective.

NO SALE

Lewiston, Idaho (AP)—Lewiston banned slot and pinball machines, and Citizen Ed Klonick told reporters the town might as well be folded up in a tent and given back to the Indians. Pretty soon he got a letter from a Nez Perce Indian: "We don't want. You just fold it up and keep it."

OLD HOME WEEK

Oakland, Calif. (AP)—Sailor Fred Clays, 19, a long way from his Arlington, Virginia, home, was lonesome, so he lined up for a movie.

A chief petty officer in the ticket line ahead of him looked familiar. Fred yelled. His father, Maurice Clays, 42, turned in surprise; they'd thought each other thousands of miles apart.

TWO-BITS RETIRES

Medford, Ore. (AP)—Two-Bits, the cliff-jumping fox terrier, is retiring to the farm.

He nose-dived over an 800-foot cliff in January, and his master gave him up for dead. Ten days later the dog, who had landed in a snowbank, struggled home, full wagging.

Last week he'd recovered sufficiently to dive again. This time there was no snow on the rocks below—but his master, William Ziegler, hopefully searched for several days, and found the dog.

Two-Bits was badly bruised again. Ziegler said he'd send him to a farm to break him of his dangerous habit.

San Francisco (AP)—"Say," said the stranger, "where do I file my income tax?"

Fred Campodonico, at his cigar counter in the lobby, pointed.

"Right there," he replied.

"Well, maybe so, but I just can't find it."

LUCKY NUMBER

Memphis, Tenn. (AP)—Thirteen unlucky? Don't try to peddle that stuff to Sgt. James F. Gates, Jr., bombardier in the Army Air Forces, who says he—

Was born May 13, 1917—

Was in two consecutive battles in the Solomons on the 13th—

Was under shellfire on Guadalcanal on the 13th—

Was on one of the longest air-sea bombardment missions of the war on the 13th—

Was away three years, seven months, 13 days—and arrived home March 13th—

And was not greatly surprised when his mother gave a luncheon for him and invited—13 guests.

PRICE OF FAME

Houston, Tex. (AP)—Twelve-year-old Catherine Stokes dashed the champagne bottle against the prow of an escort vessel today with a practiced—but cautious—swing.

When she learned she was to christen the ship named for her river-fighting great-grand uncle of the 1860's, Lieut. Charles Swasey, she went to the back yard of her Berwyn, Pa., home to rehearse.

She chose a tree for the prow and used a stick instead of a bottle, she explained.

The stick didn't break. Her arm was sprained.

HORSE BEATS MAN

Blanding, Utah (AP)—Leland Shumway, 27-year-old miner, raced 19 hours against a riderless, unsaddled horse—then surrendered.

The race was arranged to settle the community argument over whether a horse could travel twice as far as a man in a 24-hour period.

The miner had walked 65 miles in 19 hours, but quit when he learned the horse had made 135. The horse was pretty tired, too.

NOT SO FAST, POP

Savannah, Ga. (AP)—Forty-fifth street residents have to get up early to beat some of the Victory gardeners.

The head of one family had big plans afoot. The seeds had been bought, a plow borrowed and a vacant lot was waiting. He got into some old clothes and started running the plow up and down the length of the garden.

Another member of the family stopped him. His son had planted the garden several days previously.

TOO FAMOUS

Kansas City, Kas. (AP)—Policeman George F. Grauberg and Eli Yovetich couldn't help overhearing young men in a cafe talking about a friend who'd sold his car.

"And say," piped up one of the crowd, "did you guys know he sold his C gasoline ration book, too?"

The patrolmen went into action, the seller went to jail, and the city recorded its first gasoline-rationing arrest.

HERE AND THERE

A big United States sub rode the swells of the broad Pacific. It was Monday, December 14. Every key post was manned. The craft was stalking the sea for Japanese ships.

In the skipper's quarters a conference was being held. A member of the crew was writhing in agonized pain. He was suffering from an acute attack of appendicitis. The only man aboard with some medical knowledge was a first class pharmacist's mate. . . . a sailor. An immediate operation was necessary if the sailor's life was to be saved.

The pharmacist's mate was designated to do the operating. A machinist's mate was to assist. Lieutenant Jesse A. Davis, Jr., of Baltimore, was appointed to administer the ether. The skipper would be present.

"I am certainly thankful that the skipper hasn't asked me to take any part in it," wrote Lieutenant Murray B. Frazee to Mrs. Frazee, the former Miss Betty Swope, Broadway.

"The whole thing is about to worry me sick. He (the patient) is one of my men, a first class torpedoman. It will be great if it all works out. But you can imagine how a person must feel who has never operated making his first operation under such circumstances. But I'll be saying a prayer. I'm strongly tempted to forego my vacation the next time in port and have my appendix cut right then and there."

The skipper of the sub ordered a dive. The big ship dove to a safe depth to keep the cigar-shaped craft from rolling and to be safer from attack, depth-charges and the like.

A messroom table was used as the operating table. Sterile spoons were flattened as retractors and an electrician's pliers came in handy for general purposes. There were a couple of handy scalpels and three cans of ether. Oversized sutures had to be contended with.

There was scarcely a word spoken. The pharmacist's mate made the first incision about an hour after Lieutenant Davis had started to administer ether. There were no masks so Davis used gauze soaked in ether. The patient did not respond readily. Inexperienced hands continued to apply the anesthesia.

The pharmacist's mate finally started operating. The appendix had ruptured and the patient was in a serious condition. But the deft fingers of the operating sailor probed for pieces of the appendix. Ninety minutes later, with the supply of ether exhausted before the operation was completed, the operating "surgeon" stepped back. He had done his best. The patient's life was in the hands of the Gods.

"The patient was as strong as a horse and we were perspiring so hard as to dilute the ether concentration and thus it took nearly an hour to get him under. Then we ran out of ether before he was all the way sewed up," wrote Lieutenant Davis.

"By that time he was well sprinkled inside and out with sulfanilamide powder. Thus, with a rubber band hanging out of the incision as a drain and a few prayers to ourselves we watched and waited," said Davis.

"Lo and behold! When he should have been sick as the well-known dog from ether the next day, he was asking for food."

December 17.

"Well, we went ahead with the operation the other night," wrote Lieutenant Frazee. "The patient is still with us after 48 hours. He has only a 50-50 chance we figure though, for the appendix had ruptured before the operation started. . . . but tonight his temperature is normal again. Everyone who watched agreed that it was a very professional job that our 'Doc' did. . . . he had the guy open for 90 minutes while he worked on him and tried to find what was left of the appendix. . . . and then sewed him up neat as could be. It isn't the first time this has happened, for another boat had a successful appendectomy last patrol."

January 6.

"Ten days after the operation the patient was sitting up. In two weeks he was walking and now, less than four weeks after, he is standing watches again and is fully recovered," wrote Frazee.

"That certainly is one of the miracles of the ages. There aren't many people who recover from an operation in which the appendix has ruptured before the operation starts."

Lieutenant Frazee graduated from Gettysburg high school and spent two years at Gettysburg college. He graduated from the United States Naval academy in 1939, served aboard the ill-fated airplane carrier Lexington and then transferred to submarine service. At the present time he is gunnery and torpedo officer aboard his sub.

And this is the thing we like.

Frazee spends two months and more on one patrol at a time in a submarine, prowling the Pacific, in all weather, stalking Japanese ships to sink, knowing that his own craft is being hunted; also knowing that should a depth-charge explode near his submerged craft his chances of surviving are one in a thousand. . . . yet he was thankful the skipper didn't ask him to assist in the operation just because the patient was his crack torpedoman. Frazee says submarine service is the safest in the world.

A long-distance "friendship by correspondence" that started more than ten years ago between an American girl and a French boy has terminated. . . . because the French boy is a prisoner of war in Germany.

When Miss Rachael Withers, now Mrs. C. H. Heldt, North Stratton street, was a student at Shippensburg State Teachers' college, her French instructor arranged to have her pupils correspond with French pupils who were studying English in various schools in France.

The Americans would write their letters in French and the French pupils would write theirs in English. It was an interesting and fascinating way to learn the language each was studying.

Miss Withers drew a young Frenchman by the name of Maurice Renon. Renon was studying music.

Three or four times a year letters were exchanged. Miss Withers graduated, became an instructor in French at Biglerville high school and after her marriage to Doctor Heldt she came to Gettysburg to live. Through all those years she continued to correspond with young Renon.

In 1939 Renon wrote that he was being mobilized. Later he wrote her from the Maginot Line, the famous fortified stronghold erected as an impenetrable barrier against possible German invasion.

Early in 1940 the letters from Renon ceased. The Germans did invade France, circled the Maginot line and captured thousands of French soldiers.

The last letter Mrs. Heldt received from Renon told of his capture and imprisonment. His letter follows:

"Dear Rachael: There is about two years you have not received a letter from me, and about the same time I have no news from you. During the war, I was a Second Lieutenant; on the 26th of June 1940, I was wounded at the neck and throat; a projectile penetrated under my left ear, went through my neck and went out between 2 vertebrae without wounding or wounding the spine; fortunately, it was miraculous.

"I lost a great deal of blood, but I cured rather quickly. Sometimes I feel the effects of this wound.

"It will be soon 2 years I am prisoner of war. I hope you are in good health, also your husband, your child or perhaps children (since 2 years I have no news) and also your sister who wrote to my younger brother who plays at the Opera and at the Academy of Music."

"Here, in captivity, I go on playing a little cello and studying medicine. I learn also German. I hope the war will end and soon the peace reign."

"Here we have a sort of French University and some Professors of the Great University of Koenigsberg come and made lectures. I think by the American Red Cross (Y.M.C.A.) I can receive parcels (tobacco, cigarettes, books, food). I shall be very happy to have soon news of yourself. I am going to write another letter for you."

"Receive all my wishes for yourself and your family. Very sincerely, your little friend of France Maurice Renon."

"I enclose a snapshot, you can see myself (in the circle). I hope you will receive rather quickly this letter with the photograph enclosed. Maurice Renon."

Mrs. Heldt says she recognizes the change in style of Renon's letter. She believes that he must have written it under a strain or pressure. . . . that it is not written in his customary free and easy style. As for his studying medicine at the camp. . . . she merely grins and says. . . . "maybe."

A young private in the United States Army won the coveted Logan medal and $500 prize in the 47th annual exhibit at the Chicago Art Institute for his sculpturing of Lincoln. But not only the sculptor's name, Sidney Loeb, figured in the story of the award. . . . Gettysburg, Lincoln and Scott, an old Adams county

Oyler Takes Postmaster's Position Soon

Lawrence E. Oyler, Baltimore street, has been appointed acting postmaster at the Gettysburg post office and will assume his new duties as soon as a postal inspector comes here to supervise the official check-up of the post office accounts. This is considered a routine matter.

Mr. Oyler was recommended for the appointment to succeed the late Postmaster C. A. Williams when the latter planned to retire March 31st. The recommendation was made by a local committee of democrats to Senator Joseph P. Guffey who, in turn, sent the recommendation to President Roosevelt for final action.

Appointment of Mr. Oyler as the acting postmaster followed Mr. Williams' sudden death early Monday morning.

Post office officials here were notified that an inspector will come to Gettysburg to supervise the checking of accounts after which the office of Postmaster will be turned over to Mr. Oyler.

Under civil service regulations the acting postmaster will serve for six months. During that period an open examination will be held at which the appointee will be certified for the position if he meets the designated qualification.

name, also are involved. Here's how Newsweek reported it:

As a civilian last spring, Loeb found it "difficult" at times to work on nudes with war news popping all over the place. So for the need of comfort and solace—if for no other reason—Abraham Lincoln became at first a refuge, then a statement, then a credo: "This is what the war is about."

Loeb volunteered for military service in July and by September, when he was called, he still had not finished the statue.

"In the early part of January, the mail orderly brought a letter containing the Chicago Annual prospectus. . . . It jolted me loose for a moment. . . . I confess I became a bit angry—that Hitler so-and-so made it all so impossible. Then in the evening Little Private Loeb sat in the barracks indulging in a morose fit. The sergeant in charge of the personnel department, sitting on a cot nearby, looked like the proper person to take the brunt of my feeling. He looked over the prospectus.

"Are you really a sculptor?" he asked. "Kind of, I replied, 'and if I could get home on my furlough now, instead of next month, I might possibly finish the piece—at least put it into presentable form.' The man was chewing gum—and I watched him mulling over the idea.

"Wa-ll," he said, 'maybe I can suggest it to the C.O.—maybe not. Appears to me that you got a legitimate reason for getting a furlough. 'You aren't pulling my leg, are you?' 'Now, get the hell back to your bunk!'"

The furlough was granted. "The next day, after I was on board a train heading north [from Florida, where his ordnance company is stationed], and bewildered at the amazing circumstances that develop in the Army, I learned that my C.O., Lieutenant Scott, came from Gettysburg. Indeed his grandfather was named after the Great Emancipator and he himself carries the name Robert Lincoln Scott!"

But Newsweek erred. Loeb's commanding officer (C.O.) is Robert Lincoln Scott. His father's name is William Lincoln Scott and his grandfather's name is George Washington Scott. Washington was a greater name than Lincoln when the latter was born.

Lieutenant Robert Lincoln Scott's parents reside on a farm along March creek near the Water company pumping station. He was and still is an ardent aviation fan. . . . has a pilot's license. He enlisted in the Gettysburg unit of the Pennsylvania National Guard and was mustered into active service before Pearl Harbor. He served with Company E through its many maneuvers in the south, tried to get a transfer to the Air Corps, but was refused. He kept plugging away at Army service, rose to the rank of sergeant and then was selected as officer material. He was commissioned a lieutenant at the Fort Francis E. Warren school, Wyoming, and is now on duty in the south. "Bob" loves the Army and will give his best on every assignment. . . . but he still loves the Air Corps and would like to be a combat pilot.

The Gettysburg Aerie of Eagles will hold its annual oyster feed starting at 6 p. m. today. It was announced by Secretary James B. Aumen. Fifty gallons of oysters have been purchased by the club for the feed, which is expected to attract more than 500 members. The officers of the club are in charge of the affair.

PASSENGER BUS LINE TO SERVE CARLISLE ROUTE

Cleason H. Cromer, Carlisle, was licensed at Harrisburg on Monday by the Public Utilities Commission to operate a passenger bus service between Gettysburg and Carlisle on a six-day schedule.

Cromer, who operates several star mail routes out of the Gettysburg post office, has a steel-body 22-passenger bus for the new route which goes into operation next Saturday.

The bus will touch 10 intermediate towns between Gettysburg and Carlisle. Daily trips will start at 6:20 a. m. at Idaville each day excepting Saturday and will reach Gettysburg at 7:15 a. m. via Gardners, Aspers, Bendersville, Flora Dale and Biglerville.

At 8:15 a. m. the bus will leave Gettysburg for Carlisle via Table Rock, Biglerville, Guernsey, Flora Dale, Bendersville and Aspers arriving at Carlisle at 10 o'clock.

Special Saturday Schedule

On the return trip from Carlisle the bus will leave at 12:15 p. m. and reach Gettysburg at 2:20 p. m. with scheduled stops at Mr. Holly Springs, Goodyear, Idaville, Gardners, Aspers, Bendersville, Flora Dale, Guernsey, Biglerville and Table Rock.

The final trip will leave Gettysburg at 5:40 p. m. arriving at Idaville at 6:35 p. m. Special schedules are listed for Saturdays when the bus operates only in the afternoons and evenings. On its last trip on Saturdays it leaves Gettysburg at 10:15 p. m. and arrives at Idaville at 11:10 o'clock.

Earl Blocher, Bendersville, will be the driver for the new bus route.

LIGHTER TELLS LIONS TO PLAN GARDENS EARLY

"Now is the time to plan your garden, whether it be a tiny 'flower bed' garden or a more extensive farm garden," Richard C. Lighter, secretary of the county Victory Garden committee, told members of the Gettysburg Lions club at their weekly dinner meeting Monday evening at Mrs. Smith's restaurant. "Victory gardens now are called 'existence' gardens in some parts of the country," he said.

The speaker emphasized that garden planning is one of the most important steps in the entire garden program if plantings are to be adequate for current needs with a moderate surplus for canning or drying and if seeds, time and effort are to be used most efficiently.

He described the program of the Gettysburg Victory Garden staff headed by George T. Raffensperger and said that neighborhood chairmen soon will be announced.

Lists "Golden" Foods

Predicting that gardening in many families this summer will take the place of outings, golf and fishing trips, Mr. Lighter displayed bulletins and charts that are available to amateur gardeners and urged the importance of proper fertilization and cultivation. He named tomatoes, carrots, beets, lettuce and string beans as "golden" foods that will be scarce next winter, that will take high point values to purchase and that should be given special attention in victory gardens.

President William A. Beales presided at the meeting with 26 Lions and guests in attendance. Clarence J. Waybright was presented with the Lions' key emblem in recognition of his success in securing new members for the club.

Elmer Schriver, an assistant chief air plane spotter for the local spotter station, asked clubmen to help fill daily shifts on the station from 10 a. m. to 2 p. m.

A meeting of the board of directors followed the club session.

New Class For Nurse's Aides To Open Monday

An appeal was made Tuesday for volunteers to take the nurse's aides' course at the nurses' home at the Warner hospital beginning next Monday afternoon at 4 o'clock under the supervision of Mrs. Glenn Sachs, supervisor of nurses at the hospital.

"There is an urgent need for more nurse's aides," Mrs. Henry M. Scharf, chairman of the Red Cross committee in charge of the work, said today.

"A shortage of registered nurses, increased work and the new Army Air Corps students here open up new efforts for nurse's aides in Gettysburg. Our present staff is devoting many hours of volunteer work and it is hoped that we will have many more volunteers for this humanitarian work."

Those willing to devote some of their spare time for nurse's aides work are urged to communicate with Mrs. Scharf at the Hotel Gettysburg in advance of the opening of the next class Monday.

30 More Volunteer For Spotter Duty

The number of members of the air raid spotter station in town was brought to 180 Monday evening when 30 additional volunteers offered their services. Twenty spotters who had previously expressed their desire to serve, but had not been fingerprinted or given identification cards, also were present at the meeting.

The spotters' session was held at the fire engine house with Lawrence M. Sheads, sub-district head, and Richard C. Lighter, instructor, giving instructions in the proper methods of spotting.

Chief of Police Glenn Guise was in charge of fingerprinting.

ANNOUNCES NEW WAR BOND DRIVE

Special Lenten Services Planned

Edmund W. Thomas, chairman of the Adams county war bond and stamp committee, announced the opening of a drive for $13,000,000 worth of all series of war bonds to begin April 12 at a meeting of the Upper Adams County Lions club, Tuesday evening, in Biglerville.

Mr. Thomas described the various features of the approaching campaign and compared the present methods of financing the war with those during the first world war. He also stressed the efforts the U. S. Treasury department is making to curtail inflation by presenting various types of war bonds to combat this possibility.

He made a special appeal for support in the coming campaign and said that he was confident Adams county would uphold its share of the burden of financing the war to a successful conclusion.

NEED PERMITS NEXT MONTH TO BUTCHER CATTLE

It will be necessary for all livestock slaughterers, and dealers in livestock in Adams county to have a permit to operate after March 31, according to H. F. Snyder, chairman of the Adams County USDA War Board. These permits will be issued to all persons who slaughter meat to sell, including farmers, butchers, and meat packers; also to livestock dealers by the county USDA war board in all areas, except six Pennsylvania cities, Philadelphia, Pittsburgh, Reading, Allentown, Harrisburg and Erie.

This is the result of an order recently issued by Secretary Wickard which aims to prevent black market operations in meat. County war boards having been given the responsibility of administering the programs, are setting up plans as rapidly as possible, Mr. Snyder announced.

The three parts of the order require: 1. All livestock slaughterers, including farmers who slaughter for sale, to obtain an operating permit, and to add in enforcement by stamping each wholesale cut of meat with the permit number.

2. All livestock dealers to obtain a permit to buy and sell livestock, and to keep a record of their operations (farmers are required only to keep a record of all purchases or sales of livestock).

Letters To The Editor

Dear Sir,

I will drop you a line to say that I am away out here in Texas. After going to school in Holabird for three months I was sent away out here. It sure was a long train ride and I saw an awful lot of the U.S. Some of it was nice and then there were some parts that I wouldn't want to live in.

Some of the biggest and best places we came through in the nite but I saw plenty in the day time. We had to change time out here for they are an hour slower than around there. It is so level out here you can see for miles around and it is an awful sandy place. Every time the wind blows the sand drifts.

Just like fine snow. That's one thing that we will have to watch now. I will probably be here 13 weeks for they say that we have to go through our basic training again. But I don't know how hard that will be. I did have seven weeks of basic training at Belvoir and that was plenty tough. There is a nice bunch of boys here in this camp with me and the Non-Coms all are a nice bunch of fellows. I guess I would better bring this to a close and tell my friends around Adams county that I said hello and for pasture they are to take a trip to Texas. They will sure enjoy it and I will enjoy reading your paper. It will keep me in touch with home and my many friends in and around that part of the country.

Will close and I will be looking for The Times. I remain,

Yours sincerely,

PFC Lyman Dick,
962nd Engr. Maint. Co.,
Camp Swift, Texas.

I am writing you this letter to thank you to the utmost for sending me the "Times." I enjoy reading the entire paper and especially the letters from other boys in the service and the column "With Our Service Men."

I am also writing this letter to let you know that I have moved once again. My new address you will find at the end of the letter.

I have been sent down here to the University of Mississippi to take up a course in advanced administration. This school is the only one of its kind in the country and it has only been open for about six months.

We are living in the dormitories on the campus. The campus of the university is really nice. Lots of grass and trees and everything to make a soldier happy.

There are plenty of women here, too, as the college is co-educational. The girls are very friendly and speak to anyone. Down here they say "Hey" for "Hello."

I will be down here for about nine weeks and feel sure already that I won't regret my stay one bit.

I almost forgot to tell you that I was promoted to the grade of corporal as of March 3, 1943.

I can truthfully say that my first three months in the Army Air Force have really been enjoyable ones and feel that my future time will be just as enjoyable.

Yours truly,

Many Donate Second Time To Red Cross

The Adams County Red Cross War Fund was increased Saturday by $30 from an anonymous donor, who sent the money in addition to a previous donation because "when I made the first contribution, I thought it was just the regular roll call for membership. Now that I understand what the drive is for, I want to give an additional $10 for each member of my family."

The anonymous donor was not the only person in the county who gave only membership dues at first, but who is planning to give additional sums now that he has learned the need for the $18,700 being sought by the Red Cross, it was revealed today. At least one similar additional contribution will be received Monday it was stated.

Nearly one-third of the war fund has been collected so far, with the second week of the drive closing today. Donations overnight brought the total collected so far to $5,231.60.

County officials were looking forward today to large contributions from various industrial organizations. Included among the donations received this morning was $50 from the Orrtanna Canning company.

Col. and Mrs. Edward J. Oliver gave $10. A $12 check was received from the Barlow Fire company and $10 was given by the Tuesday Afternoon bridge club.

Volunteers to serve as airplane spotters in the observation center on the roof of the First National bank building were being sought today by post staff members for two periods Friday.

The hours from 8 to 10 a. m. and from 12 to 2 p. m., are open, it was stated.

One of the periods will be filled this Friday by Glenn Guise, who has agreed to act as an alternate, Richard C. Lighter, assistant chief observer for the day, has announced. However volunteers to serve permanently at that time are being sought. Persons wishing to serve should call either Mr. Lighter at the office of county superintendent of schools or at his home in the evenings, or they may call Harold Reuning, captain for the day.

The schedule for Friday follows: Midnight to 3 a. m., David J. Burnette and George Felder, Jr.; 3 to 6 a. m., Arthur Boyer and Cedric Tilberg; 6 to 8 a. m., Phyllis Eckert and Nancy Berkheimer; 8 to 10 a. m., open; 10 to 12 noon, Harold Reuning; 12 to 2 p. m., open; 2 to 4 p. m., Mrs. Katherine Wentz and Mrs. Isabelle Snavely; 4 to 6 p. m., Mrs. Madeline Hudson; 6 to 8 p. m., Catherine Everly and Patricia Geisley; 8 to 10 a. m., Lillian Stoops and Mrs. J. P. Fiscus; 10 to 12 midnight, Mrs. Barton Foth and Dorothy Foth.

Army officials were here this morning for their first formal inspection of the post.

They found "everything in A-1 shape," W. J. Stallsmith, chief observer of the post said. The army men, who are stationed at Harrisburg, are making an inspection of all observation posts in the county today.

A decision was also reached to hold the annual track meet this spring at a place and date to be announced later.
